JAMES PATRICK BOYER, an individual; CATHERINE BOYER, an individual,

Plaintiffs,

v.

REED SMITH, LLP, a Delaware limited liability partnership; JAMES J. BARNES, an individual; LMJ ENTERPRISES, LLC, a Delaware limited liability company, Defendants.

CASE NO. C12-5815 RJB

ORDER GRANTING DEFENDANT REED SMITH'S MOTION FOR PROTECTIVE ORDER REGARDING SCOPE OF RULE 30(B)(6) DEPOSITION

This matter comes before the Court on Defendant Reed Smith, LLP's motion for a protective order pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(c)(1)(D). Dkt. 52. The Court has considered the pleadings in support and in opposition to the motion and the record herein.

1 INTRODUCTION AND BACKGROUND

2 In November 2006, Pat Boyer, alongside LMJ Enterprises, LLC (LMJ), invested in 3 Turning Wheel, a Florida-based company that operated multiple RV dealerships. Dkt. 1. Over
4 the next three plus years, Boyer would make additional investments in the company. Id. Boyer
5 alleges that his collective investments totaled over $4.1 million. Id. Turning Wheel failed and 6 was closed for business in November 2010. Id.

7 The Boyers filed the instant lawsuit against LMJ, James Barnes, and Reed Smith, LLP.
8 Dkt. 1. The Boyers assert three causes of action against Defendant Reed Smith: (1) Washington
9 State Securities Act violations; (2) constructive fraud; and (3) negligent misrepresentation. Id.

10 LMJ was a personal investment vehicle for its three members James Barnes, Renaldo
11 Jerrell, and Harry Hardwick. Barnes is a partner in the law firm of Reed Smith, LLP. Dkt. 12.
12 Reed Smith’s principal place of business is located in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania and Barnes is the 13 office managing partner of Reed Smith’s Pittsburgh office. Reed Smith employs over 1800
14 lawyers across more than two dozen offices throughout the United States, Europe, the Middle 15 East, and Asia. Dkt. 52. Reed Smith attorneys provide their clients with a full spectrum of legal 16 services including litigation, transactional, regulatory, bankruptcy, trusts and estates, and tax 17 services. Id.

18 On August 23, 2013, Plaintiffs served Reed Smith with notice of its intent to take a Rule
19 30(b)(6) deposition. Dkt. 53 pp. 5-8. The notice enumerated sixteen separate topics for 20 examination. Id. Reed Smith provided its response and objections to the 30(b)(6) notice on 21 September 6. Dkt. 53 pp. 10-16. In its response, Reed Smith agreed to provide a designee to 22 testify regarding:

- 1      Reed Smith’s policy and practices with respect to its individual partners’ acquisition,
2     ownership, or sale of interests in other businesses, partnerships, or corporations
3     (Topic 3);
- 4      Reed Smith’s policy and practices with respect to its individual partners selling 5     or facilitating the sale of securities for personal benefit (Topic 4);
- 6      Reed Smith’s policy and practices with respect to assisting its partners in the 7     solicitation of capital for their personal businesses or ventures (Topic 5);
- 8      Reed Smith’s policy and practices with respect to providing legal services for 9     its individual partners or their separate, personal businesses or ventures (Topic 6);
- 10     Reed Smith’s policy and practices with respect to authorizing individual 11    partners to perform legal services for third parties separate from work
12    performed on behalf of Reed Smith (Topic 12);
- 13     Reed Smith would provide a witness to testify to the written duties of an office
14    Managing Partner; and
- 15     Reed Smith’s policy and practices with respect to partners, attorneys, and 16    employees utilizing Reed Smith’s resources, including facilities, computers, 17    printers, programs, email accounts, letterhead, office supplies, attorneys, and 18    for support staff for personal, extra-curricular, or non-Reed Smith business
19    (Topic 15).

20 Dkt. 53 pp. 10-16. Each of the responses carried a qualifier — that no one could ever describe
21 all “practices” under a policy because of the vast number of attorneys, clients, and circumstances 22 that occur and because of the implications testimony on such individualized “practices” would 23 have upon the paramount need to preserve client confidences and privileges. Id.

24         On September 23, 2013, counsel for the parties addressed the objections to the Rule
30(b)(6) deposition by telephone conference. Dkt. 53 p. 2. Although the conference call resolved certain objections, the scope of deposition as to “practices” remained unresolved. Dkt.
53 pp. 38-41. The instant motion for a protective order followed.

Reed Smith selected the Office Managing Partner (OMP) at its San Francisco office as its Rule 30(b)(6) designee. Dkt. 56-1. During the course of the Rule 30(b)(6) deposition the OMP

1 was instructed not to answer a series of questions related to whether certain documents or 2 practices were in accord with written policies of Reed Smith. Dkt. 56-1 pp. 9-16. The 3 deposition was concluded without the designee answering any specific questions regarding
4 whether certain specific practices were in compliance with Reed Smith written policies. Dkt. 56-5 1.

6 SCOPE OF RULE 30(b)(6) DEPOSITION

7 Pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 30(b)(6), a party may serve notice on an organization that 8 describes “with reasonable particularity the matters on which examination is requested.” The 9 noticed organization must then “designate one or more officers, directors, or managing agents, or 10 other persons who consent to testify on its behalf.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 30(b)(6). “The persons so 11 designated shall testify as to the matters known or reasonably available to the organization.”
12 Fed. R. Civ. P. 30(b)(6).

13 Although there is conflicting case law from other circuits on the proper scope of a Rule
14 30(b)(6) deposition in light of its “reasonable particularity” requirement, districts in the Ninth
15 Circuit have concluded that “[o]nce the witness satisfies the minimum standard [for serving as a 16 designated witness], the scope of the deposition is determined solely by relevance under Rule 26,
17 that is, that the evidence sought may lead to the discovery of admissible evidence.” Detoy v. City
18 and County of San Francisco, 196 F.R.D. 362, 367 (N.D. Cal. 2000); see also U.S. E.E.O. V. v.
19 Caesars Entertainment, Inc., 237 F.R.D. 428, 432 (D. Nev. 2006).

20 Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(1) provides that “[p]arties may obtain discovery regarding any 21 nonprivileged matter that is relevant to any party's claim or defense ... Relevant information 22 need not be admissible at the trial if the discovery appears reasonably calculated to lead to the 23 discovery of admissible evidence.” The scope of discovery permissible under Rule 26 should be

1 | liberally construed; the rule contemplates discovery into any matter that bears on or that
2 | reasonably could lead to other matter that could bear on any issue that is or may be raised in a
3 | case. Phoenix Solutions Inc. v. Wells Fargo Bank, N.A., 254 F.R.D. 568, 575 (N.D. Cal. 2008).
4 | Discovery is not limited to the issues raised only in the pleadings, but rather it is designed to
5 | define and clarify the issues. Miller v. Pancucci, 141 F.R.D. 292, 296 (C.D. Cal. 1992).

6 |         In turn, Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(2)(c) provides that “[o]n motion or on its own, the court
7 | must limit the frequency or extent of discovery otherwise allowed by these rules or by local rule
8 | if it determines that: (i) the discovery sought is unreasonably cumulative or duplicative, or can be
9 | obtained from some other source that is more convenient, less burdensome, or less expensive; (ii)
10 | the party seeking discovery has had ample opportunity to obtain the information by discovery in
11 | the action; or (iii) the burden or expense of the proposed discovery outweighs its likely benefit,
12 | considering the needs of the case, the amount in controversy, the parties' resources, the
13 | importance of the issues at stake in the action, and the importance of the discovery in resolving
14 | the issues.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(c)(1) provides that a court “may, for good cause, issue an order to
15 | protect a party or person from annoyance, embarrassment, oppression, or undue burden or
16 | expense.” To establish “good cause,” a party seeking a protective order for discovery materials
17 | must “present a factual showing of a particular and specific need for the protective order.” Welsh
18 | v. City and County of San Francisco, 887 F.Supp. 1293, 1297 (N.D. Cal. 1995); see also Gen.
19 | Dynamics Corp. v. Selb Mfg. Co., 481 F.2d 1204, 1212 (8th Cir. 1973). In determining whether
20 | to issue a protective order, courts must consider “the relative hardship to the non-moving party
21 | should the protective order be granted.” Gen. Dynamics, 481 F.2d at 1212. Under the liberal
22 | discovery principles of the Federal Rules, a party seeking a protective order carries a heavy
23 | burden of showing why discovery should be denied. Blankenship v. Hearst Corp., 519 F.2d 418,

1 429 (9th Cir. 1975). The court may fashion any order which justice requires to protect a party, or 2 person, from undue burden, oppression, or expense. United States v. Columbia Broadcasting
3 System, Inc., 666 F.2d 364, 369 (9th Cir. 1982).

4 The Court finds the decision of Dagdagan v. City of Vallejo, 263 F.R.D. 632 (E.D. Cal.
5 2010) persuasive. In Dagdagan, the City of Vallejo designated a police sergeant as its Rule
6 30(b)(6) witness to answer questions concerning the training given to Vallejo police officers on 7 search and seizure procedures, the use of force, and specifically, the use of tasers. Id. p. 639.
8 The designee testified as to the policies and training provided. However, when questioned as to 9 whether certain practices complied with City policies, the witness was directed by the City's
10 counsel not to respond as the questions on the basis they were outside the scope of the Rule
11 30(b)(6) designation and/or sought expert opinion. Id. The court agreed. The Rule 30(b)(6)
12 designee is required to answer as to matters known or reasonably available to the City.
13 Questions as to whether certain practices or documents reflect compliance, or non-compliance,
14 with the stated policies are outside the purview of a Rule 30(b)(6) designee. The questions of 15 whether certain practices adhere to the policies are questions which are appropriate for other 16 witnesses. Id. at 639-40.

17 It appears that the same conduct occurred in the deposition of Reed Smith's designee. As 18 noted by Plaintiffs, counsel for Reed Smith instructed the Rule 30(6)(b) designee "not to answer 19 a series of questions related to whether certain documents or practices were in accord with 20 various Reed Smith stated, written policies." Dkt. 55 p. 6.<sup>1</sup> This is the type of inquiry found to 21 be beyond the scope of a Rule 30(b)(6) deposition. Plaintiff is not permitted to request an expert

---

23 <sup>1</sup> The parties should review and adhere to the Minute Order Regarding Discovery and 24 Depositions. Particular attention should be given to part 2(c) Directions Not to Answer. See
Dkt. 6

1 opinion as to whether certain “practices” complied with corporate “policies.” The inquiry must
2 be confined to matters “known or reasonably available to the organization.”

3 The designation of Defendant Barnes as Reed Smith’s Rule 30(b)(6) witness in regard to 4 the topic of Reed Smith’s history and relationship with LMJ Enterprises, LLC. is permissible.
5 The Plaintiffs are entitled to depose Defendant Barnes individually either prior to, or subsequent
6 to his Rule 30(b)(6) examination. For the convenience of all parties, this dual examination
7 should be conducted on the same day at the same location.

8 CONCLUSION

9 The deposition of Reed Smith’s Fed. R. Civ. P. 30(b)(6) designee has occurred. It 10 appears the only questions objected to and unanswered were of the type prohibited as beyond the 11 scope of the deposition. Defendant Reed Smith is entitled to a protective order.

12 Therefore, it is hereby ORDERED:

13 Defendant Reed Smith, LLP’s Motion for Protective Order Regarding Scope of 30(b)(6)
14 Deposition (Dkt. 52) is GRANTED.

15 Dated this 21st day of October, 2013.
