8 BRUCE E. GAMBILL JR.,

9 Plaintiff,

10 v.

11 US BANKRUPTCY COURT, et. al,

12 Defendants.

CASE NO. C12-5963 BHS

ORDER DENYING PLAINTIFF'S MOTIONS TO PROCEED IN
FORMA PAUPERIS AND FOR TEMPORARY RESTRAINING
ORDER AND DISMISSING

13
14 This matter comes before the Court on Plaintiff Bruce E. Gambill ("Gambill"), 15 motion for in forma pauperis (Dkt. 1) and motion for temporary restraining order 16 ("TRO") (Dkt. 1-4). The Court has considered the pleadings filed in support of and the 17 remainder of the file and hereby denies the motions for the reasons stated herein.

18 I. PROCEDURAL AND FACTUAL HISTORY

19 In Gambill's complaint, he alleges Racketeering Influenced and Corruptions
20 Organizations ("RICO") violations, as well as other allegations involving personal injury 21 and what he terms "color of law" violations. See Dkt. 1-2. Gambill's allegations are 22 against the United States Bankruptcy Court, United States Bankruptcy Court Judges

1 Snyder and Lynch, the Washington State Commission for Judicial Conduct, and the 2 Washington State Bar Association, as well as three other named defendants, whose 3 conduct or relationship to the allegations in the complaint is unclear. See Dkts. 1-2.

4 On November 6, 2012, with his complaint, Gambill filed both a motion to proceed
5 in forma pauperis (Dkt.1 ) and an “emergency” motion, seeking to enjoin the foreclosure
6 sale of his home scheduled for November 9, 2012. Dkt. 1-4. The Court concludes that 7 Gambill’s “emergency” motion should be considered a motion for TRO. See Fed. R. Civ.
8 P. 65(b).

9 II. DISCUSSION

10 The district court may permit indigent litigants to proceed in forma pauperis upon 11 completion of a proper affidavit of indigency. See 28 U.S.C. § 1915(a). However, the 12 “privilege of pleading in forma pauperis . . . in civil actions for damages should be 13 allowed only in exceptional circumstances.” Wilborn v. Escalderon, 789 F.2d 1328 (9th 14 Cir. 1986). Moreover, the court has broad discretion in denying an application to proceed 15 in forma pauperis. Weller v. Dickson, 314 F.2d 598 (9th Cir. 1963), cert. denied 375 U.S.
16 845 (1963).

17 A federal court may dismiss sua sponte pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6) when 18 it is clear that the plaintiff has not stated a claim upon which relief may be granted. See 19 Omar v. Sea Land Serv., Inc., 813 F.2d 986, 991 (9th Cir. 1987) (“A trial court may 20 dismiss a claim sua sponte under Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6) . . . . Such a dismissal may be 21 made without notice where the claimant cannot possibly win relief.”). See also Mallard
22 v. United States Dist. Court, 490 U.S. 296, 307 (1989) (there is little doubt a federal court

1 would have the power to dismiss a frivolous complaint sua sponte, even in absence of an
2 express statutory provision). A complaint is frivolous when it has no arguable basis in 3 law or fact. Franklin v. Murphy, 745 F.2d 1221, 1228 (9th Cir. 1984).

4 Although Gambill's current submissions are mostly incomprehensible, the core of 5 his complaint appears to be based on allegations of conspiracy to defraud him of his 6 home and criminally induce him to file "fraudulent bankruptcy." Dkt. 1-2 at 2. Gambill
7 alleges two million five-hundred thousand dollars ($2,500,000.00) in damages, resulting
8 from the alleged conspiracy by the judiciary, including U.S. Bankruptcy Judges Snyder
9 and Lynch<sup>1</sup>, the U.S. Bankruptcy Court, and a state association and commission as well
10 as other named individuals, two of which appear to be attorneys. Based on Gambill's 11 incomprehensible submissions, the Court finds his allegations have no arguable basis in 12 law or fact. The complaint may contain some substance as to malpractice claims against 13 attorneys (Dkt. 1-2 at 3), assuming they have represented Gambill; however, there is no
14 federal jurisdiction for such claims, but there might be state court jurisdiction. The Court

16 <sup>1</sup> "Judges are absolutely immune from civil liability for damages for their judicial acts."
17 Mullis v. United States Bankruptcy Court for Dist. Of Nevada, 828 F.2d 1385, 1388 (9th Cir.
18 1987). "A judge will not be deprived of immunity because the action he took was in error, was 19 done maliciously, or was in excess of his authority; rather, he will be subject to liability only 20 when he has acted in the clear absence of all jurisdiction." Id. (Stump v. Sparkman, 435 U.S.
21 349, 356-57 (1978) (internal citations and quotation marks omitted)). Here, although Gambill 22 states that he is suing the United States Bankruptcy Court, it appears that he is attempting to allege claims against Judges Snyder and Lynch, presumably based on their judicial acts. See Dkt. 1-2. Because Judges Snyder and Lynch, as well as court clerks, are entitled to absolute immunity, Gambill's complaint fails to state a claim against them upon which relief can be granted. See Curry v. Castillo (In re Castillo), 297 F.3d 940, 947-48 (9th Cir. 2002) (concluding that judicial immunity extends to non-judicial officers for all claims relating to the exercise of judicial functions, including administrative acts that are part of the judicial process).

1 finds that the majority of the complaint is incomprehensible and frivolous, and Gambill
2 fails to adequately assert any ground to invoke this Court's jurisdiction.

3 Therefore, the Court DENIES Gambill's motion to proceed in forma pauperis
4 (Dkt. 1), his motion for a TRO<sup>2</sup> (Dkt. 1-4), and dismisses his complaint for lack of 5 jurisdiction. The Clerk is directed to close this case.

6 Dated this 8th day of November, 2012.

United States District Judge

14 <sup>2</sup> Gambill's motion for TRO seeks relief from the Court in the form of an 15 injunction enjoining the foreclosure sale of his home scheduled for November 9, 2012. Dkt.1-4.
However, since this court dismisses his complaint for lack of jurisdiction, it is not necessary to rule on his TRO.

16 Even assuming, without deciding, that Gambill could meet the standard for issuance of a 17 TRO, establishing that (1) irreparable harm would occur in the absence of preliminary relief, (2) the balance of equities tipped in his favor, and (3) granting an injunction is in the public interest, 18 Gambill must also establish a likelihood of success on, or serious questions going to, the merits.
Winter v. Natural Resources Defense Council, 555 U.S. 7, 20 (2008). As discussed above, 19 Gambill's complaint alleges claims against defendants that are entitled to judicial immunity and his allegations are without a basis in law or fact. Accordingly, he cannot show that he is likely to succeed on the merits of the case or even that there are serious questions going to the merits.

20 Although the Court acknowledges that the irreparable injury factor might weigh in favor of granting the TRO in that Gambill may be irreparably harmed if the foreclosure sale occurs, the 21 record is insufficiently developed on this factor and the other factors of the public interest, and the balance of equities weighs in favor of denying the TRO. Moreover, the balance of equities 22 also weighs in favor of denying the TRO in that Gambill waited until 3 days before the scheduled foreclosure sale to file this motion. He fails to state in his motion any reason why he would have only recently learned of the sale.
