15	This matter comes before the Court on Plaintiffs' motion to compel (Dkt. 23),
16	Defendants' motion for entry of a special protective order (Dkt. 26), and Defendants'
17	motion for leave to file a surreply to Plaintiffs' motion to compel (Dkt. 32). The Court
18	has considered the pleadings filed in support of and in opposition to the various motions
19	and the remainder of the file. For the reasons stated herein, the Court grants Defendants'
20	motion for leave to file a surreply (Dkt. 32); gr	cants in part and denies in part Defendants'
21	motion for a special protective order (Dkt. 26); and reserves ruling on the Plaintiffs'
22	motion to compel (Dkt. 23).

I. PROCEDURAL & FACTUAL BACKGROUND

2 On January 29, 2013, Plaintiffs Darnell Fleming ("Fleming") and MAG 3 Enterprises, LLC ("MAG") filed suit against Defendants Parnell and Samson Sports, LLC ("Samson"), a company which Parnell OWNS and controls. Dkt. 1. The complaint 4 5 seeks (1) a declaration of noninfringement of copyrights; (2) declaration of invalidity of copyrights; (3) declaration of ownership of copyrights; (4) breach of fiduciary duties; and 6 7 (5) dissolution of partnership, accounting and equitable distribution. Id. at 1. The 8 allegations in the complaint involve the formation of a partnership between Plaintiffs and 9 Defendants to design, manufacture and sell an American with Disabilities Act ("ADA") 10 compliant access ramp system. Dkt. 1 at 5.

11 On June 6, 2013, Plaintiffs filed a motion to compel seeking production of 12 Sampson's financial records and accounting database as well as Parnell's financial 13 records and other discovery which relate to specific and numerous interrogatories and 14 requests for production ("RFP"). Dkt. 23. On June 26, 2013, Defendants filed a brief in 15 opposition to Plaintiffs' motion to compel combined with a motion for a special 16 protective order regarding attorney's eyes only designated documents ("AEO"). Dkt. 26. 17 On June 21, 2013, Plaintiffs replied to Defendants' brief in opposition to their motion to 18 compel. Dkt. 30. On June 24, 2013, Defendants filed a motion for leave to file a 19 surreply to Plaintiffs' motion to compel. Dkt. 32 and 32-1. On June 26, Plaintiffs filed 20response to Defendants' motion to file a surreply, asking the Court to strike Defendants' 21 surreply and exhibits attached thereto. Dkt. 35.

II. DISCUSSION

2 After review of the pleadings filed about these interrelated motions, the Court 3 finds that it is not entirely clear which discovery disputes have been resolved by the 4 parties and which are outstanding. This is in part due to Plaintiffs' reply to their motion 5 to compel, which indicates that the items listed in Defendants' response as "Resolved" 6 are not actually resolved because "Defendants have not actually produced records and 7 documents." Dkt. 30 at 2. However, in the same brief, Plaintiffs indicate in a footnote 8 that counsel received large amounts of documents via email on June 20, 2013, which could be some or all of the documents Plaintiffs seek.<sup>1</sup> Id. at 2, n. 6. Additionally, in 9 10 Plaintiffs' reply, although they indicate that the items which Defendants have marked as 11 "Resolved" are not resolved, they specifically address "Defendants' Table under 12 Subsection C" as unresolved; that section solely discusses the requests for production 13 directed at Samson. Id.

Given the present ambiguity as well as the lack of detail necessary for the Court to resolve some of these disputes, the Court will address some of the issues that are clearly unresolved and will require an additional submission by the parties as to which disputes still require Court intervention.

20

<sup>1</sup> Although Plaintiffs contend that whatever is in Defendants' email "document dump" constitutes late disclosure for which Defendants should be sanctioned (Dkt. 30 at 2, n. 6), whether the Defendants have produced documents requested by the Plaintiffs is important for the Court to consider in ruling on Plaintiffs' motion.

1 A.

Motion to file Surreply to Plaintiffs' Motion to Compel

Defendants seek leave to file a surreply to the Plantiffs' motion to compel "to 2 respond to new arguments and alleged facts in Plaintiffs' Reply." Dkt. 32. Plaintiffs 3 move to strike Defendants' proposed surreply on the basis of Western District Local Rule 4 ("W.D. Local Rule") 7(g), arguing that rule "expressly prohibits the filing of surreply 5 briefs except 'to strike material contained in or attached to a reply brief." Id. (citing 6 W.D. Local Rule 7(g). However, 7(g) does not speak to motion to leave to file a 7 surreply; it discusses when the surreply itself may be filed with respect to requests to 8 strike material contained in or attached to a reply brief. See W.D. Local Rule 7(g). Nor 9 do Plaintiffs refute that they presented new arguments and facts in the reply, which are 10 the bases on which Defendants seek to file additional briefing. See Dkt. 35. 11 Additionally, Plaintiffs have responded to the proposed surreply, in the form of a motion 12 to strike the surreply, which was properly noted as a "response" to Defendants' motion. 13 Therefore, the Court has the opportunity to consider both parties' supplemental briefing 14 when deciding the motion to compel and Defendants' motion for a special protective 15 order, if it deems necessary. Thus, the Court grants the Defendants' motion to file a 16 surreply and accepts the proposed surreply as Defendants' surreply. Dkt. 32. 17

B. Motion for a Special Protective Order

The Plaintiffs' motion to compel and the Defendants' motion for a special protective order are related, as the Defendants' motion for special protective order is responsive to some of the Plaintiffs' requests for production addressed in their motion to compel. Dkt. 26. In the instant motion, Defendants request additional protection for 1 certain documents Plaintiffs seek to compel. Dkt. 26. The Court will address the 2 Defendants' motion for a special protective order; some of the issues raised there are 3 more fully developed than they are in the pleadings directed strictly at the motion to compel. To the extent the Court's ruling impacts items for which Plaintiffs seek 4 5 production in their motion to compel, the Court will discuss how it will require the parties 6 to address the overlap in the section entitled Motion to Compel. See infra. 7 Defendants made their motion for a special protective order regarding: (1) 8 Defendant Parnell's personal financial records; (2) Defendant Samson's financial records 9 for its boat tower and boat accessory business; (3) the technical drawings for Samson's 10 boat towers and accessory business; (4) the compensation Samson pays its employees; (5) 11 the redaction of those employees' Social Security numbers; and (6) the redaction of 12 portions of Samson's credit card numbers. Dkt. 26 at 3.

Defendant Parnell's Personal Financial Records

This issue has been resolved by the Court's order on Defendants' motion to quash the Unitus subpoena for Parnell's personal financial records. Dkts. 34, 37 and 38.

16

Samson's Financial Records Related to its Boat Tower and Accessory Business

Defendants seek an order from the Court allowing them to produce Samson's financial information regarding the boat tower and accessories under an AEO designation with the additional protection that that information not be disclosed to anyone other than experts who are not engaged in, or in any way affiliated with, the boat tower and accessory business. Dkt. 26-1 at 3. Defendants maintain that they asked Plaintiffs to agree to an AEO designation for Samson's database and related financial records because they contain confidential information about that business's costs (and therefore its profit margin), suppliers and customers. Dkt. 38 at 3. According to Defendants, Plaintiffs refused because they claim Fleming must examine all Samson's financial transactions in order to identify each partnership transaction. Id.

In summary, Samson argues that in contrast to Plaintiffs' position, partnership records, revenues and expenses have been separated from the boat tower and accessory business and Samson has already produced its bank records by virtue of the Unitus subpoena; therefore, there is no need for Mr. Fleming to review the documents relating Samson's boat tower and accessory business. Dkt. 38 at 3-4. However, Plaintiffs' accounting expert, Jennifer Murphy, explained the nature and usefulness of documents received from Defendants regarding the partnership as follows:

13 Based on the content of the QuickBooks database, the dates on which the journal entries were created, and Ms. Kool's prior statements during my attempted inspection of Partnership records on May 22, this 14 QuickBooks database was created by someone (allegedly Ms. Kool) on 15 June 16-17, 2013. The database includes only records and transactions selected by Ms. Kool (or whoever actually created the database, which I do not know). They include large deductions for costs and expenses without 16 any detail or supporting information. These are not the accounting records of the Partnership as they existed during the Partnership, nor are they 17 adequate to perform a valid accounting of the Partnership due to the lack of underlying transaction detail and the lack of support for the assumptions 18 made. 19

20 Dkt. 36 at 4 (Declaration of Jennifer Murphy). Even with the bank records provided by 20 Unitus, Plaintiffs should not be forced to rely on Samson's Quickbooks summary created 21

1	over a period of a few days, in a suit where Plaintiffs' allegations <sup>2</sup> put Samson's internal
2	accounting transactions as they relate to the partnership are at issue. Therefore, it is
3	unreasonable to put further restrictions on Plaintiffs' case preparation by forbidding
4	Plaintiff and former partner, Fleming, from reviewing the requested records associated
5	with Samson in order to assist Plaintiffs' experts in evaluating and disentangling
6	partnership transactions from Samson's other business. The Court finds that designating
7	the documents as AEO, restricting their review to only those experts who are not
8	competitors of Samson, but permitting Fleming to assist experts in reviewing the
9	documents, strikes the proper balance between protecting Samson's business and
10	allowing Plaintiffs to adequately prepare their case. Defendants' motion for entry of a
11	special protective order on this issue is granted with the qualifications set forth above.
12	3. Technical Drawings for Samson's Boat Towers and Accessory Products
13	Defendants maintain that the technical drawings for Samson's boat towers and
14	accessory products are not relevant to this dispute. Dkt. 26 at 6. Nonetheless, they have
15	agreed to produce these documents under the AEO designation and requested additional
16	protection of their drawings by asking Plaintiffs to "agree not to disclose them to experts
18	<sup>2</sup> In relevant part, the complaint also alleges that:
19	Samson, and Parnell through his dominion and control of Samson and thus of the partnership, have breached fiduciary duties owed to Plaintiffs by
20	misappropriating and/or converting partnership assets, failing to account for use and disposition of partnership assets, and commingling with Samson's own
21	accounts, partnership assets; that these breaches directly, foreseeably, and proximately caused damage to Plaintiffs.

22 Dkt. 1 at 13-14.

who are competitors of Samson Sports." Id. Plaintiff provides no explanation as to why 1 2 these drawings are necessary or how they could possibly lead to relevant information 3 admissible at trial, yet they rejected Defendants' conditions for production. Unless the technical drawings are related to ramps, which could clearly be relevant to this suit, 4 5 Samson is not required to produce any technical drawings for its boat tower and 6 accessory business. However, to the extent the technical drawing are related to ramps, 7 those documents should be produced under the AEO designation of the current protective 8 order, as Plaintiffs' experts may need to legitimately review those drawings. Thus, 9 Defendants' motion is granted, except as to Samson's ramp-related technical drawings.

4. Samson's Employee Compensation

Plaintiffs seek Samson employees' compensation information. Plaintiffs argue 11 there is no legitimate basis to deny this request. Dkt. 37 at 3. Plaintiffs point out that, 12 according to their accounting expert, Ms. Murphy, "Samson has claimed hundreds-of-13 thousands of dollars in expenses against the Partnership, including employee time and/or 14 salaries, so this [request for production] falls under the same category as Samson's 15 accounting and financial records." Id. Although Defendants maintain employee 16 compensation information is not relevant (Dkt. 26 at 5), Samson has offered to disclose 17 its employee compensation under an AEO designation, but Plaintiffs refused. Dkt. 38 at 18 5. Defendants maintain that Samson employee compensation information should be 19 provided for attorney's eyes only with the additional restriction that the information not 20 be disclosed to any expert that is a competitor of Samson. Id. 21

1 When Defendants are sued on issues concerning partnership accountings and there 2 is a dispute about the occurrence of misappropriation and/or conversion of partnership 3 assets, failures to account for use and disposition of partnership assets, and commingling with Samson's own accounts partnership assets (Dkt. 1 at 13-14) and administrative or 4 5 personnel expenses form a part of the financial accounting, then that employee compensation information may indeed be relevant. The Court is sensitive to Defendants' 6 7 concern that disclosure of Samson employee compensation could be unnecessarily 8 disclosed to experts who compete with Samson. The Court finds that the information 9 should be produced under the designation AEO, and only experts who are not engaged in 10 or affiliated with Samson's competitors will be permitted to review the employee 11 compensation information. Therefore, Defendants' motion for entry of a special 12 protective order is granted as to this issue.

5. Samson Employees' Social Security Numbers

Defendants seek to redact in their entirety employees' Social Security numbers 14 from documents produced. Dkts. 26 at 5 and 26-1 at 3. However, Defendants have told 15 Plaintiffs they would agreed to provide Samson employees' Social Security numbers 16 under an AEO designation (Dkts. 26 at 5 n. 2), given the highly sensitive nature of the 17 information, especially the last four digits which Plaintiffs seek. Dkt. 38 at 6. Plaintiffs 18 indicate that they need employee Social Security numbers to permit verification of 19 transactions and documents. Dkt. 37 at 4. They maintain the numbers will be treated as 20 "confidential" under the current stipulated protective order and therefore the last four 21 digits will not be available to the public or publicized. Id. 22

1 Given the highly sensitive nature of Social Security numbers and in the absence of 2 a showing of necessity for this particularly private information of non-parties to this suit, 3 the Court finds that the last four digits of Samson employees' Social Security numbers should be produced under the AEO designation of the current stipulated protective order. 4 5 In the event that Plaintiffs are somehow prevented from verifying transactions or 6 documents under the AEO designation, they may make a motion to have the designation 7 removed. The Defendants' motion for entry of a special protective order to redact the entirety of its employees' social security numbers is denied. 8

Samson's Credit Card Numbers

Samson has four credit card accounts, each issued by a different company. 10 Dkt. 38 at 6. Samson has produced all credit card statements, redacting all but the last 11 four digits of three of the credit cards, excepting its American Express card where it 12 redacted all but the last six digits. Id. Plaintiffs maintain they need the entire credit card 13 numbers. Dkt. 37 at 4. They argue that under the current stipulated protective order this 14 financial information is already considered confidential, thus there is no reason "why 15 Plaintiffs and their attorneys should be subjected to stricter controls than wait staff at a 16 local restaurant." Id. Plaintiffs maintain that redaction of credit card numbers is not 17 required and only complicates document control and verification. Id. 18

The Court is surprised that the parties could not resolve this particular issue without resorting to the Court for assistance. Additionally, it seems rather disingenuous for Plaintiffs to claim that partial redaction of credit card numbers would somehow impede their document and verification control process (Dkt. 37 at 4), where there are

1 only four credit cards and their unredacted digits are entirely different. While the 2 confidentiality provisions of the stipulated protective order may indeed be sufficient to 3 protect the credit card account numbers from the public as Plaintiffs insist (id.), the Court acknowledges that credit card numbers are of a sensitive nature and in the absence of a 4 5 showing of necessity for disclosure of the full numbers, the Court finds that production of credit card numbers with the Defendants' redactions and the designation of 6 7 confidentiality under the terms of the stipulated protective order strikes the appropriate 8 balance between providing the additional protections Defendants seek for sensitive 9 information and permitting Plaintiffs to prepare their case. If these restrictions actually 10 prevent Plaintiffs from verifying or controlling document production, they can move the 11 Court to modify the protections for Defendants' credit card numbers. On this issue, the 12 Defendants' motion is granted.

C. Motion to Compel

As the Court stated above, it realizes Plaintiffs' motion to compel and Defendants' 14 motion for a special protective order overlap. Thus, in light of both the Court's rulings on 15 Defendants' motion for a special protective order and any resolutions at which the parties 16 have arrived regarding the items Plaintiffs seeks through their motion to compel, the 17 Court directs the parties to meet and confer by August 27, 2013 regarding outstanding 18 discovery matters and attempt to resolve them. Additionally, by August 30, 2013, the 19 parties shall submit a joint brief indicating which discovery disputes from Plaintiffs' 20motion to compel remain and summarize of the parties' respective positions as to each 21 dispute. 22

2       The Court will consider the parties' requests for attorneys fees when it rules on the notion to compel.         3       motion to compel.         4       III.
