UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
WESTERN DISTRICT OF WASHINGTON AT TACOMA

MICHAEL THEURICH, individually,

Plaintiff,

v.

KITSAP COUNTY, a Municipal Corporation organized under the laws of the State of Washington, CONMED, INC., a Foreign Corporation doing business in Kitsap County Washington, BARBARA MULL, BRUCE KALER, M.D., OFFICER RT #1146, ARLEN JOHNSON, and C. MCCARTY, Defendants.

CASE NO. 15-5097 RJB

ORDER ON MOTION FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT

This matter comes before the Court on Defendants Kitsap County, Conmed, Inc. (“Conmed”), Bruce Kaler, M.D., Arlen Johnson, Barbara Mull, and Cynthia McCarthy’s Motion for Summary Judgment. Dkt. 61. The Court has considered the pleadings filed in support of and in opposition to the motion and the file herein.

1 Plaintiff brings this civil rights case pursuant to 42 U.S.C. §1983 alleging that Defendants 2 violated his Fifth, Eighth and Fourteenth Amendment rights while he was in custody at the 3 Kitsap County, Washington jail (“jail”) when he was not permitted to undergo scheduled back 4 surgery until after his year-long incarceration. Dkt. 1. On February 8, 2016, Officer Ray 5 Tuitasi’s (named in this lawsuit as Officer RT#1146) Motion for Summary Judgment Dismissal 6 was granted and all claims asserted against him were dismissed with prejudice. Dkt. 59. The 7 remaining Defendants now move for summary dismissal of all claims asserted against them.
8 Dkt. 61. For the reasons below, the motion should be granted.

9 I. RELEVANT FACTS AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

10 A. RELEVANT FACTS

11 According to the unsworn Complaint, Plaintiff was arrested on January 24, 2012, for driving 12 under the influence of alcohol. Dkt. 1, at 5. He was scheduled to receive surgery on his cervical 13 spine on February 13, 2012 through the Veterans Administration at Swedish Hospital, in Seattle, 14 Washington. Id., at 4. Plaintiff was held as a pre-trial detainee in the jail until his conviction on 15 July 24, 2012. Dkt. 1, at 5. He was sentenced on August 7, 2012 and served his sentence in the 16 jail until he was released January 20, 2013. Id.

17 The following facts are taken from Defendants’ submissions, and are not contested.

18 1. Medical Furloughs from the Jail

19 According to Lieutenant Roxanne Payne (a corrections officer at the jail), if an inmate 20 wants to petition the court for a furlough, the inmate can express this desire through an inmate 21 request or “kite.” Dkt. 63, at 2. If an inmate is in custody on a district court case and is 22 represented by an attorney, jail staff would respond by advising the inmate to contact his attorney 23 so that the attorney can present this request to the court. Id.

1 Lt. Payne states that if an inmate is not represented by an attorney, jail staff would 2 provide a furlough request form after receiving a kite that an inmate wants to petition the court 3 for a furlough. Dkt. 63, at 2. After the inmate completes a portion of the furlough form and if 4 the requested furlough relates to medical care, jail staff forwards the form to medical staff for 5 review. Id. Once the form is completed, jail staff would deliver it “to the Kitsap County District 6 Court Clerk’s Office for processing and would be denied or granted by the court.” Id. Lt. Payne 7 states that medical kites and inmate kites are separate. Id. Medical kites are reviewed only by 8 medical staff and do not trigger the jail’s furlough process. Id., at 2-3.

9 Defendants Dr. Bruce Kaler, Arlen Johnson, Barbara Mull, and Cynthia McCarthy, each 10 of whom are employees of Defendant Conmed (the company with which Kitsap County 11 contracts to provide medical care for jail inmates), state that as part of the medical staff at the 12 jail, they did not have the authority to request, approve, or order a medical furlough for non-13 urgent medical concerns. Dkts. 64, at 2; 66, at 3; 67 at 3; 65 at 3. They indicate that they had to 14 inform jail staff if an inmate had a medical emergency which required a trip to the emergency 15 room and jail staff would arrange the release and transport. Id. None of these providers felt that 16 Plaintiff’s cervical spine condition was urgent. Id. Defendants state that they understood that 17 unless it was an emergency, an inmate obtained furloughs for medical leave from the court. Id.
18 They state that they were aware the furlough forms had a section regarding medical information 19 that they would sometimes be asked to fill out, but their role was limited to reviewing the 20 medical records and assessing the need for care. Id.

21 2. Plaintiff’s Medical and Grievance History while in the Jail

22 On January 25, 2012, Defendant Arlen Johnson, an Advanced Registered Nurse 23 Practitioner, performed an initial health assessment of Plaintiff. Dkt. 66. Plaintiff reported 24

1 degenerative disc disease at his cervical spine. Dkt. 66-1, at 2. He indicated that he was 2 scheduled with the Veterans Administration for a cervical-spine fusion at Swedish Hospital.
3 Dkt. 66-2, at 2. Johnson states that Plaintiff did not inform him of the date of the surgery. Dkt.
4 66, at 2. Johnson states he told Plaintiff that he needed to apply for a furlough “for outside 5 support or reschedule his surgery as it was not emergent.” Dkt. 66, at 2. Johnson “explained the 6 procedure was for him to request a furlough from the court through his attorney; this was a 7 routine event at the jail.” Dkt. 66, at 2; and 66-2, at 2. According to Johnson, Plaintiff’s findings 8 were normal on exam. Dkt. 66-1, at 2. He noted that Plaintiff had a history of a mood disorder.
9 Id. He prescribed Simvastatin for Plaintiff’s high cholesterol and recommended that he follow 10 up with the mental health providers. Id.

11 On January 27, 2012, Plaintiff submitted a kite to jail staff requesting a medical furlough.
12 Dkt. 50, at 4. The kite provided, in part, that Plaintiff had “scheduled since 22 Dec 11, cervical .
13 . . spine . . . laminectomy [sic] on 13 Feb 12 05:30, Swedish Hospital.” Id. Plaintiff indicated 14 in his kite that he would be in the hospital for four days and would have three to four months of 15 recovery. Id. He also stated that he had follow up appointments with a Veteran’s Administration 16 doctor. Id. The now dismissed Defendant Officer Tuitasi responded to the kite: “[y]ou must 17 contact your attorney regarding your furlough.” Id.

18 That same day, January 27, 2012, Plaintiff submitted a Health Services Request form 19 (“medical kite”) to Conmed. Dkt. 67-1. Plaintiff described his health problem as:

20 Cervical stenosis and numbness, loss feeling in arms, muscle twitch, and heavy 21 leg. Medical furlough request, spinal surgery confirmed since 22 Dec 11 at 22 Swedish Hospital, Cherry Hill, Neuroscience Institute, Dr. John Hsiang, RN Katie 23 Rupe, and Jayne Choi, primary provider: Federal Way CBOC - VA, Dr. Christina 24 Howard. Preop lab and tests 31 Jan 12 operation 13 Feb 12 0530 cervical laminectomy. Service connected veteran with cervical stenosis condition.
Operation scheduled on 13 Feb 0530. Primary care clearance appt 31 Jan 12 – with labs . . . 4 day hospital stay w/3-4 months recoup and physical therapy.

1 Dkt. 67-1, at 2-3. This January 27, 2012 medical kite was reviewed by Defendant RN Barbra 2 Mull. Id., at 2. Mull indicated that this was a non-urgent matter, scheduled a chart review, and 3 advised Plaintiff that “[m]edical does not do furloughs. That is worked out with your lawyer and 4 the courts.” Id. Mull further requested that Plaintiff sign a release so that they could review his 5 current medical records. Id.

6 Plaintiff testified that the court appointed an attorney to represent him on January 27, 2012.
7 Dkt. 62-1, at 4. Plaintiff told his attorney on multiple occasions of his cervical condition, the 8 date of the surgery, and the need for him to be released for the surgery. Id., at 4-7. Plaintiff had 9 both his sister and father call the attorney as well and remind him of Plaintiff’s need to have the 10 surgery and the date of the surgery. Id. Neither Plaintiff nor his lawyer informed the court of his 11 medical condition or petitioned it for a medical furlough. Id., at 4.

12 In any event, during his incarnation, Johnson evaluated Plaintiff on numerous occasions, 13 primarily for the administration of Simvastatin to manage his hyperlipidemia and Prazosin for 14 high blood pressure. Dkt. 66, at 2. Johnson felt that Plaintiff’s “cervical condition did not pose a 15 substantial risk of serious harm” and noted that he saw Plaintiff “on many occasions in the jail 16 clinic and ‘pod;’ he walked, moved, sat, and was active all without observable limitations or 17 problems.” Dkt. 66, at 2.

18 Between February 9, 2012 and July 30, 2012, Mull reviewed nine medical kites from 19 Plaintiff. Dkt. 67-2, at 2-10. Plaintiff raised issues regarding his diet, blood draws, and 20 medications. Id.

21 On February 14, 2012, Plaintiff, who was complaining of neck pain and numbness, was seen 22 at the clinic by a non-party to this case. Dkt. 66-2, at 2. According to the chart notes, Plaintiff 23 stated that he was scheduled for cervical surgery that day at Swedish Hospital. Id.

1 Plaintiff did not attend the surgery. No alternate date was arranged. Plaintiff talked with his 2 attorney after the missed surgery date, but does not recall what his attorney told him about 3 obtaining a medical furlough. Dkt. 62-1, at 8.

4 On May 29, 2012, Johnson saw Plaintiff, who was complaining of neck discomfort. Dkt. 66-5 2, at 3.

6 Plaintiff was sentenced on August 7, 2012. Dkt. 1, at 5.

7 Plaintiff sent a medical kite, also on August 16, 2012, describing his health problem as:

8 Cervical stenosis; on 27 Jan 2012, I submitted a medical kite and inmate kite in 9 which I had surgery scheduled for cervical laminectomy on 13 Feb [unreadable].
10 Now that I am sentenced when and how can I get this required care to prevent further numbness and paralysis? (I have no more attorney on this criminal matter) trial phase over.

11 Dkt. 67-3, at 2. Plaintiff was referred to the medical clinic for an appointment. Id. Mull also 12 responded in writing, noting that Plaintiff's release date was January 10, 2013 and that his 13 medical records indicate neck surgery was scheduled for February 2013. Id.

14 Defendant Dr. Bruce Kaler, who began seeing patients at the jail in June of 2012, examined 15 Plaintiff for the first time on August 20, 2012. Dkt. 66-2, at 4. Plaintiff wanted to discuss when 16 he would have neck surgery. Dkt. 66-2, at 4. His chart notes provide "as previously discussed, 17 scheduled after his release which maybe Jan [sic] 2013." Id. He diagnosed Plaintiff with 18 cervical radiculitis. Id. Plaintiff was given a prescription for Naproxen. Id.

19 In Plaintiff's October 10, 2012 medical kite, Plaintiff described his health care problem as:

20 My Naproxen is no longer providing inflammatory relief from pain due to my 21 cervical stenosis condition. January 2012 I asked for a medical furlough to 22 complete my scheduled operation. By my pain feeling now worse, I fear my risks of numbness or partial paralysis is getting worse as time continues.

23 Dkt. 67-4, at 2. Plaintiff was scheduled for a follow-up appointment in the clinic. Id.

1 On October 19, 2012, Dr. Kaler examined Plaintiff who was again complaining of “persistent 2 and long standing cervical radiculitis” which was bilateral. Dkt. 66-2, at 4. Plaintiff reported that 3 he had received some initial relief with the Naproxen, but was now worse. Id. Dr. Kaler states 4 he “reviewed the VA records of C-spine MRI and EMG,” study which “confirmed the cervical 5 radiculitis diagnoses.” Id. and Dkt. 64, at 3. He continued giving Plaintiff Naproxen and added 6 a prescription for Gabapentin, 300 milligrams once in the evening. Id. Dr. Kaler noted that he 7 would reevaluate in one week and consider increasing the Gabapentin weekly by 300 milligrams 8 per day. Id.

9 A week later, October 26, 2012, Dr. Kaler saw Plaintiff again, assessing him with “cervical 10 radiculitis, chronic” and increased the Gabapentin to 300 milligrams per day. Dkt. 66-2, at 4.

11 On November 7, 2012, Plaintiff submitted another medical kite, describing his health 12 problem as: “Dr. stated I’d have another follow-up on 2 Nov about Gabapentin – 13 neuralgia/stenosis. Already past date. When?” Dkt. 67-4, at 4. Mull responded with “[s]orry 14 for the delay, you are scheduled soon.” Id.

15 On November 9, 2012, Dr. Kaler saw Plaintiff, assessing him with cervical radiculitis. Dkt.
16 64-3, at 2. Dr. Kaler noted no change in findings, although Plaintiff reported some intermittent 17 improvement in neck and right upper extremity radicular symptoms. Id. Plaintiff’s range of 18 motion was guarded at his right shoulder and neck. Id. He increased Plaintiff’s dose of 19 Gabapentin. Id. Dr. Kaler indicated that he wanted to see Plaintiff in two weeks.

20 Plaintiff sent a medical kite on November 17, 2012, stating that he “didn’t get called out for 21 16 Nov follow-up on cervical stenosis and medication follow up. Again. Current meds not 22 working – still painful rt arm/shoulder.” Dkt. 67-4, at 5. Mull responded with “[t]he provider 23 said to re-evaluate you in 2 weeks from your last clinic visit on 11/9/12 that will be 11/23/12. I 24

1 do not see that you were scheduled on 11/16/12 for follow-up.” Id. She then referred the kite to 2 the provider for review. Id.

3 Plaintiff was seen in the clinic on November 23, 2012 by a nurse (who is not a party in this 4 case) that contacted Dr. Kaler about Plaintiff’s condition. Dkt. 64, at 3. Dr. Kaler ordered a 5 prescription for Gabapentin at 300 milligrams twice a day. Id., at 3-4.

6 On November 30, 2012, Dr. Kaler saw Plaintiff to follow-up on his peripheral neuropathy.
7 Dkts. 64, at 4 and 64-4, at 2. Plaintiff reported that he stopped taking Gabapentin. Id. Dr. Kaler 8 recommended that Plaintiff resume the Gabapentin. Id. Plaintiff also indicated that he had ankle 9 swelling, but was otherwise stable, “including his radicular symptoms, which were being well 10 managed by medication.” Id.

11 On December 3, 2012, Plaintiff sent a medical kite, reporting that he was still retaining 12 water, had swollen ankles and still had pain in his arms. Dkt. 67-4, at 6. Mull responded with 13 “[s]orry for the delay; you are scheduled this week.” Id.

14 Dr. Kaler saw Plaintiff on December 7, 2012. Dkt. 64, at 4 and 64-4 at 2. Plaintiff’s primary 15 complaint was lower extremity swelling. Id. His cervical radiculitis remained unchanged. Id.
16 Dr. Kaler increased the doses of a diuretic medication and the Gabapentin. Id.

17 Plaintiff filed an Inmate Grievance Form (tracking number 2012-508) on December 21, 18 2012. Dkt. 65-2, at 2. It provided:

19 In the last 3 weeks, I’ve had swelling in the ankle and knee, burning sensations in 20 the left leg. This is the 3rd time I’ve had to ask for follow ups on this care.
21 However on each visit the Dr. tells me he will follow up on the progress of how 22 the medicines are working and the pain. I’m not getting those follows in a timely 23 manner as the doctor told me. I’m concerned this current situation is related to my 24 stenosis as I indicated 27 Jan 2012. Last week, a fasting blood draw was taken. I haven’t been informed on how this may result or may not result to the declining stenosis condition. My concern is that a less effective course of treatment is in progress, whereas my neurosurgery doctor at Swedish Neuro [sic] Surgery Institute has already ordered surgery for 13 Feb 2012. My fear continues that this 1 delay of earlier treatment is now not giving me a realistic opportunity to be cured.

2 Delaying follow ups only contributes to my declining condition, unknown nerve 3 damage, or increase in pain. If this clinic cannot provide this service, then 4 schedule with my neurosurgeon or medical furlough to get need of care.

5 Dkt. 65-2, at 2. The grievance was assigned to Conmed. Dkt. 65.

6 Plaintiff was examined in the clinic by a nurse who is not a party to this case on 7 December 26, 2012. Dkt. 65-1, at 3. Plaintiff reported leg swelling and pain. Id. He was 8 assessed as having edema, and an ultrasound was ordered because of concern he may have a 9 blood clot. Id. A few days later, the ultra sound was completed and the results were negative for 10 a blood clot. Id.

11 Conmed employee and registered nurse, Defendant Cynthia McCarthy (a registered nurse 12 who began working for Conmed on November 1, 2012) responded to Plaintiff's grievance on 13 January 3, 2013:

14 On Dec. 7, 2012, you were seen by the doctor for swelling in your lower legs - 15 left worse than the right. The doctor increased your medication in an attempt to 16 decrease the swelling and scheduled you for re-evaluation in one week. Our 17 concern was that you may have a blood clot. You were checked twice following 18 that time, and an ultrasound was ordered to rule out a blood clot. You had an 19 ultrasound of your leg today, which was negative for a blood clot. You are 20 scheduled for a follow up visit with Dr. Kaler to decide your next step in 21 treatment.

22 Id. The grievance was marked "not sustained." Id.

23 Plaintiff was again seen by Dr. Kaler on January 4, 2013. Dkts. 64, at 4 and 65-1, at 3.
24 Plaintiff's primary complaint was swelling in his lower legs. Id. Plaintiff's edema had improved with diuretics, but had not fully resolved. Id. They discussed a trial of Doxycycline. Id. Dr.
Kaler indicated that he wanted to see Plaintiff again in a week to re-evaluate. Id. Dr. Kaler was not concerned that Plaintiff's endema was caused by his cervical stenosis. Dkt. 64, at 4.

1 On January 10, 2013, Plaintiff filed another Inmate Grievance Form (tracking number 2 2013-023) stating:

3 Health Services Manager only addressed my course of care for the swelling on 4 my leg. However, the focus of my problem/complaint is that I have had to make 5 additional kites to "remind" of weekly appointments. On review of previous 6 kites, 10 Oct 2012, I had to submit a kite to be seen when the doctor told me I 7 would be seen a week earlier than the kite was written. On 7 Nov 12, I submitted 8 a second kite to be seen. CONMED answered on 8 Nov12: sorry for delay. On 9 16 Nov I submitted another to which I thought I would be seen 9 Nov 12. The 10 doctor has been doing weekly appointments to monitor my pain. The appt person 11 rather put me in for appt on 23 Nov. On 21 Dec I had submit a 3rd kite to be seen 12 on the pain and a new swelling problem. My concern, this is a repeated oversight 13 or problem with lasting impact on my pain. Finally, on 16 Aug 12 you 14 (CONMED) stated my records indicate surgery for Feb 2013. I'm 3 weeks from 15 February 2013. When is my pre-op scheduled and when is my surgery date?
16 Most surgeries are scheduled 2 to 3 months in advance. CONMED has known 17 my condition since 27 Jan 2012. My pain has not changed and worsened since 18 the start on Gabapentin. I would like to know what date my pre-op and surgery is 19 on, based on what I asked on the 16 Aug 2012 med kite and previous kites.

20 Dkt. 65-3, at 2.

21 Plaintiff was released from custody on January 20, 2013. Dkt. 1, at 5.

22 The January 10, 2013 grievance was forwarded to Conmed, and on January 21, 2013, 23 McCarthy responded:

24 Your surgery is scheduled for after your release, which was supposed to be in January 2013. That is what Dr. Kaler wrote in your chart in August of 2012. You have been treated for cervical radiculitis for a few years. I have been the manager since November so I am only familiar with your leg injury.

Dkt. 65-3, at 3. The grievance was marked not sustained.

Plaintiff did not submit a medical furlough form at any time.

According to the Complaint, after his release from the jail, Plaintiff sought care for his cervical condition, and received surgery on October 8, 2013. Dkt. 1, at 15. The Complaint alleges that the surgery was more extensive than the surgery planed in February 13, 2012

1 because there had been a “progression of the myelopathy due to lack of surgical intervention 2 while in jail.” Id. Plaintiff offers no evidence to support this allegation in his response to the 3 motion for summary judgment.

4 Plaintiff filed the Complaint on February 13, 2015. Dkt. 1. He asserts claims for violations
5 of his 5th, 8th, and 14th Amendment rights to the U.S. Constitution and asserts that RCW 6 70.48.130 was violated. Id. Plaintiff seeks damages and attorneys’ fees. Id.

7 B. PENDING MOTION

8 Defendants now move for summary dismissal of the claims asserted against them, arguing 9 that Plaintiff did not have a serious medical need. Dkt. 61. They argue that he cannot show that 10 the individual Defendants were deliberately indifferent to the medical care he required, so they 11 did not violate his constitutional right against cruel and unusual punishment. Dkt. 61.

12 Defendants assert that requiring Plaintiff to request a furlough for medical treatment outside the 13 jail does not demonstrate deliberate indifference and the policy is reasonably related to legitimate 14 penological interests. Id. Defendants argue that the fact that Kitsap County contracted with 15 Conmed to provide medical care to inmates at a flat rate also does not demonstrate deliberate 16 indifference. Id. The Defendants assert that the individual Defendants are entitled to qualified 17 immunity. Id. Defendants argue that to the extent that the individual Defendants are named in 18 their official capacity, the claims are really claims against Kitsap County. Id. Defendants argue 19 that Plaintiff’s constitutional claims against Kitsap County, asserted pursuant to § 1983 and 20 Monell v. Dept. of Social Services, 436 U.S. 658 (1978), should be dismissed because Plaintiff 21 cannot point to a policy, practice, custom or scheme that resulted in a constitutional violation.

1 Plaintiff responds and asserts that he had a serious medical condition while in custody and so 2 satisfies the objective prong of the deliberate indifference test. Dkt. 68, at 3-4. Plaintiff argues 3 that Kitsap County’s duty to provide medical care is non-delegable. Id., at 5-6. He notes that 4 Kitsap County entered into a contract with Conmed. Id., at 6. Plaintiff asserts that “the County 5 cannot delegate away its responsibilities to protect inmate and plaintiff Michael Theurich.” Id.
6 Plaintiff contends that Kitsap County and Conmed “cannot shirk this responsibility by delegating 7 it further to plaintiff Theurich or his public defender, by saying he can get the medical care he 8 needs if and only if he can arrange his own furlough (and payment).” Id., at 6-7. He asserts that 9 it was the Defendants obligation to see that Plaintiff got care. Id., at 7. Plaintiff maintains that 10 “[t]he suggestion that he seek a furlough was just a means to delay and deny care and to shirk the 11 expense of care.” Id. Plaintiff argues that “as an official policy of the County” liability under 12 Monell attaches. Id.

13 C. REFERENCES TO OTHER CLAIMS AND ORGANIZATION OF OPINION

14 Plaintiff’s Complaint references the due process clause under the 5th Amendment regarding 15 the Defendants’ provision of medical care. Dkt. 1. Although Defendants seek summary 16 dismissal of all claims, they do not directly address Plaintiff’s 5th Amendment claim, to the 17 extent he makes one, nor does Plaintiff discuss it. To the extent that Plaintiff makes a claim for 18 substantive due process under the 5th Amendment in regard to his medical care, the claim should 19 be dismissed because the claim should be analyzed under the Eighth and Fourteenth 20 Amendments. “[I]f a constitutional claim is covered by a specific constitutional provision, such 21 as the Fourth or Eighth Amendment, the claim must be analyzed under the standard appropriate 22 to that specific provision, not under the rubric of substantive due process.” Crown Point Dev.
23 Inc. v. City of Sun Valley, 506 F.3d 851, 855 (9th Cir.2007) (internal citations omitted). The 24

1 specific amendments that apply to the provision of medical care in a jail are the 8th and 14th 2 Amendments. Clouthier v. Cty. of Contra Costa, 591 F.3d 1232, 1249 (9th Cir. 2010). They 3 will be addressed below.

4 Plaintiff's Complaint also asserts that RCW 70.48.130(7) (which is now RCW 70.48.130(8)) 5 was violated. Dkt. 1. RCW 70.48.130 provides, in part:

6 (1) It is the intent of the legislature that all jail inmates receive appropriate and 7 cost-effective emergency and necessary medical care. Governing units, the health 8 care authority, and medical care providers shall cooperate to achieve the best rates 9 consistent with adequate care. . .

10 (8) Under no circumstance shall necessary medical services be denied or delayed 11 because of disputes over the cost of medical care or a determination of financial 12 responsibility for payment of the costs of medical care provided to confined 13 persons.

14 Plaintiff does not indicate that he is making an independent claim under this statute. He 15 references the alleged violation of RCW 70.48.130(8) in his discussion of his claims under 16 Monell. This opinion will address his treatment of the statute in that context.

17 Claims remaining, then, are: Plaintiffs claims for violations of his 14th and 8th Amendment 18 rights pursuant to § 1983 against the individual Defendants and against Kitsap County under 19 Monell. This opinion will first consider Plaintiff's § 1983 claims against the individual 20 Defendants (including their assertions of qualified immunity) and second, Plaintiff's § 1983 21 claims asserted against Kitsap County under Monell.

22 II. DISCUSSION

23 A. SUMMARY JUDGMENT STANDARD

24 Summary judgment is proper only if the pleadings, the discovery and disclosure materials on file, and any affidavits show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact and that the movant is entitled to judgment as a matter of law. Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(c). The moving party is

1 entitled to judgment as a matter of law when the nonmoving party fails to make a sufficient 2 showing on an essential element of a claim in the case on which the nonmoving party has the 3 burden of proof. Celotex Corp. v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 323 (1985). There is no genuine issue 4 of fact for trial where the record, taken as a whole, could not lead a rational trier of fact to find 5 for the non moving party. Matsushita Elec. Indus. Co. v. Zenith Radio Corp., 475 U.S. 574, 586 6 (1986)(nonmoving party must present specific, significant probative evidence, not simply “some 7 metaphysical doubt.”). See also Fed.R.Civ.P. 56(e). Conversely, a genuine dispute over a 8 material fact exists if there is sufficient evidence supporting the claimed factual dispute, 9 requiring a judge or jury to resolve the differing versions of the truth. Anderson v. Liberty 10 Lobby, Inc., 477 .S. 242, 253 (1986); T.W. Elec. Service Inc. v. Pacific Electrical Contractors
11 Association, 809 F.2d 626, 630 (9th Cir. 1987).

12         The determination of the existence of a material fact is often a close question. The court 13 must consider the substantive evidentiary burden that the nonmoving party must meet at trial – 14 e.g., a preponderance of the evidence in most civil cases. Anderson, 477 U.S. at 254, T.W. Elect.
15 Service Inc., 809 F.2d at 630. The court must resolve any factual issues of controversy in favor 16 of the nonmoving party only when the facts specifically attested by that party contradict facts 17 specifically attested by the moving party. The nonmoving party may not merely state that it will 18 discredit the moving party’s evidence at trial, in the hopes that evidence can be developed at trial 19 to support the claim. T.W. Elect. Service Inc., 809 F.2d at 630 (relying on Anderson, supra).
20 Conclusory, non specific statements in affidavits are not sufficient, and “missing facts” will not 21 be “presumed.” Lujan v. National Wildlife Federation, 497 U.S. 871, 888-89 (1990).

1     B. CLAIMS UNDER § 1983 GENERALLY

2     In order to state a claim under 42 U.S.C. § 1983, a complaint must allege that (1) the conduct 3 complained of was committed by a person acting under color of state law, and that (2) the 4 conduct deprived a person of a right, privilege, or immunity secured by the Constitution or laws 5 of the United States. Parratt v. Taylor, 451 U.S. 527, 535 (1981), overruled on other grounds, 6 Daniels v. Williams, 474 U.S. 327 (1986). Section 1983 is the appropriate avenue to remedy an 7 alleged wrong only if both of these elements are present. Haygood v. Younger, 769 F.2d 1350, 8 1354 (9th Cir. 1985), cert. denied, 478 U.S. 1020 (1986).

9     Parties do not address whether the Defendants that are not governmental officials 10 (Defendants Conmed, Inc., Dr. Bruce Kaler, Arlen Johnson, Barbara Mull, and Cynthia 11 McCarthy) were “acting under the color of state law.” They are not Kitsap County employees, 12 but provide medical services to inmates via a contract with the county. Under Supreme Court 13 precedent, they are considered “state actors” that is are persons “acting under the color of state 14 law” regarding their provision of medical services to inmates pursuant to their contract with 15 Kitsap County. West v. Atkins, 487 U.S. 42 (1988)(private physician under contract with the state 16 to provide medical services to state prison inmates acts under the color of state law for purposes 17 of section 1983). The provision of medical services here was “state action” and “fairly 18 attributable to the State.” Id., at 54.

19     Further, Plaintiff asserts that Defendants’ conduct violated his constitutional rights against 20 cruel and unusual punishment. His contention will be addressed below.

21     C. CLAIMS AGAINST INDIVIDUAL DEFENDANTS

22     Defendants in a Section 1983 action are entitled to qualified immunity from damages for 23 civil liability if their conduct does not violate clearly established statutory or constitutional rights 24

1 of which a reasonable person would have known. Pearson v. Callahan, 129 S.Ct. 808, 815
2 (2009) (quoting Harlow v. Fitzgerald, 457 U.S. 800, 818 (1982)). Qualified immunity balances 3 two important interests: the need to hold public officials accountable when they exercise power 4 irresponsibly and the need to shield officials from harassment, distraction, and liability when 5 they perform their duties reasonably. Harlow v. Fitzgerald, 457 U.S. at 815. The existence of 6 qualified immunity generally turns on the objective reasonableness of the actions, without regard 7 to the knowledge or subjective intent of the particular official. Id. at 819. Whether a reasonable 8 officer could have believed his or her conduct was proper is a question of law for the court and 9 should be determined at the earliest possible point in the litigation. Act Up!/Portland v. Bagley, 10 988 F.2d 868, 872-73 (9th Cir. 1993).

11 In analyzing a qualified immunity defense, the Court must determine: (1) whether a 12 constitutional right would have been violated on the facts alleged, taken in the light most 13 favorable to the party asserting the injury; and (2) whether the right was clearly established when 14 viewed in the specific context of the case. Saucier v. Katz, 121 S.Ct. 2151, 2156 (2001). “The 15 relevant dispositive inquiry in determining whether a right is clearly established is whether it 16 would be clear to a reasonable officer that his conduct was unlawful in the situation he 17 confronted.” Id. The privilege of qualified immunity is an immunity from suit rather than a mere 18 defense to liability, and like absolute immunity, it is effectively lost if a case is erroneously 19 permitted to go to trial. Saucier v. Katz, 121 S.Ct. at 2156.

20 1. Federal Claim for Violation of Constitutional Right Against Cruel and 21 Unusual Punishment

22 a. Violated?

23 The government has an “obligation to provide medical care for those whom it is 24 punishing by incarceration.” Estelle v. Gamble, 429 U.S. 97, 103 (1976). “Deliberate

1 indifference to serious medical needs of prisoners constitutes the unnecessary and wanton 2 infliction of pain, proscribed by the Eighth Amendment,” and can give rise to a claim under § 3 1983. Id. (internal quotations omitted). “In order to prevail on an Eighth Amendment claim for 4 inadequate medical care, a plaintiff must show deliberate indifference to his serious medical 5 needs. This includes both an objective standard—that the deprivation was serious enough to 6 constitute cruel and unusual punishment—and a subjective standard—deliberate indifference.”
7 Colwell v. Bannister, 763 F.3d 1060, 1066 (9th Cir. 2014)(internal citation omitted).

8 To the extent that Plaintiff bases his claim of failure to provide adequate medical care during the 9 time he was a pretrial detainee (until he was convicted on July 24, 2012), “his rights derive from 10 the due process clause rather than the Eighth Amendment's protection against cruel and unusual 11 punishment.” Gibson v. Cty. of Washoe, Nev., 290 F.3d 1175, 1187 (9th Cir. 2002)(citing Bell v.
12 Wolfish, 441 U.S. 520, 535 (1979)). Pretrial detainees' rights under the Fourteenth Amendment 13 are comparable to prisoners' rights under the Eighth Amendment, so the same standards for 14 claims of inadequate medical care are applied. Clouthier v. Cty. of Contra Costa, 591 F.3d 1232, 15 1249 (9th Cir. 2010); Frost v. Agnos, 152 F.3d 1124, 1128 (9th Cir. 1998).

16 i. Objective Standard – Serious Medical Need

17 In regard to the objective standard, “the plaintiff must show a serious medical need by 18 demonstrating that failure to treat a prisoner's condition could result in further significant injury 19 or the unnecessary and wanton infliction of pain.” Jett v. Penner, 439 F.3d 1091, 1096 (9th Cir.
20 2006)(internal citation omitted). “Indications that a plaintiff has a serious medical need include 21 the existence of an injury that a reasonable doctor or patient would find important and worthy of 22 comment or treatment; the presence of a medical condition that significantly affects an 23
24

1 individual's daily activities; or the existence of chronic and substantial pain.” Colwell, at 1066 2 (internal quotations and citations omitted).

3 Plaintiff fails to point to sufficient evidence in the record to conclude that he had a 4 “serious medical need” for immediate surgery on his cervical spine. Plaintiff’s medical record 5 establishes that his cervical spine condition and other ailments were ones that “a reasonable 6 doctor or patient would find important and worthy of comment or treatment,” and were serious 7 medical needs. His assertion, however, that his cervical spine condition required immediate 8 surgery is not supported. He does not meet the first standard.

9 ii. Subjective Standard – Deliberately Indifferent

10 As to the subjective standard, a plaintiff must show that prison officials acted with 11 “deliberate indifference;” that is that they knew of and disregarded “an excessive risk to inmate 12 health and safety.” Toguchi v. Chung, 391 F.3d 1051, 1057 (9th Cir. 2004). “This second prong 13 — that defendant's response to the need was deliberately indifferent—is satisfied by showing (a) 14 a purposeful act or failure to respond to a prisoner's pain or possible medical need and (b) harm 15 caused by the indifference.” Jett, at 1096. Deliberate indifference “may appear when prison 16 officials deny, delay or intentionally interfere with medical treatment, or it may be shown by the 17 way in which prison physicians provide medical care.” Id. (internal quotation omitted). “[A]n 18 inadvertent or negligent failure to provide adequate medical care alone does not state a claim 19 under § 1983,” however. Id.

20 Plaintiff has failed to show that the individual Defendants Kaler, Johnson, Mull, 21 McCarthy, and Conmed were deliberately indifferent to a serious medical need regarding his 22 cervical spine condition. He points to no evidence that any of them knew of and “disregarded 23 ‘an excessive risk to [his] health and safety.’” Toguchi, at 1057. He does not point to an act or 24

1 failure to respond to his pain or medical need as to any of these Defendants. Vague and 2 conclusory allegations of official participation in civil rights violations are not sufficient to 3 support a claim under § 1983. Ivey v. Board of Regents, 673 F.2d 266 (9th Cir. 1982).
4 Particularly as to Conmed, a defendant cannot be held liable under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 solely on 5 the basis of supervisory responsibility or position. Monell v. New York City Dept. of Social 6 Services, 436 U.S. 658, 694 n.58 (1978); Padway v. Palches, 665 F.2d 965 (9th Cir. 1982).
7 Moreover, the record indicates that he was being monitored and treated for his condition, which 8 was chronic, but stable (and even showed mild improvement at one point). “To show deliberate 9 indifference, the plaintiff ‘must show that the course of treatment the doctors chose was 10 medically unacceptable under the circumstances’ and that the defendants chose this course in 11 conscious disregard of an excessive risk to plaintiff's health.” Colwell, at 1068 (internal 12 quotations and citations omitted). Plaintiff has made no such showing. While Plaintiff argues 13 that other medical care was appropriate (immediate surgery), Defendants disagreed. “A 14 difference of opinion between a physician and the prisoner—or between medical professionals—15 concerning what medical care is appropriate does not amount to deliberate indifference.” Id.
16 (internal quotations and citations omitted). Further, Plaintiff makes no showing that the 17 individual Defendants were deliberately indifferent to his medical needs when they informed him 18 of the process to obtain a medical furlough but did not obtain it for him themselves, particularly 19 during the time when he was represented by counsel. There is no evidence that his condition was 20 an emergency. Moreover, although Plaintiff asserted that he was harmed as a result, he fails to 21 point to any evidence supporting his claim. Plaintiff has failed to show that any of the individual 22 Defendants were deliberately indifferent to his serious medical need.

23 b. Clearly Established?
24

1 Government officials are entitled to “qualified immunity from damages unless they 2 violate a constitutional right that ‘was clearly established at the time of the alleged misconduct.’” 3 Mendez v. Cty. of Los Angeles, 815 F.3d 1178, 1186-87 (9th Cir. 2016)(quoting Ford v. City of 4 Yakima, 706 F.3d 1188, 1192 (9th Cir.2013).

5 The individual Defendants contend that even if they violated Plaintiff’s constitutional 6 rights, they are entitled to qualified immunity. Plaintiff does not address Defendants’ qualified 7 immunity defense. Defendants, however, do not address whether, as non-governmental 8 employees, qualified immunity is available to them. A finding of “state action” (or an action 9 taken under the color of law) for purposes of § 1983 does not require a finding that qualified 10 immunity is available. Jensen v. Lane County, 222 F.3d 570, 576 (9th Cir. 2000). In Richardson 11 v. McKnight, 521 U.S. 399 (1997), the United States Supreme Court held that prison guards who 12 were employees of a non-governmental business entity operating a private prison could not 13 assert a claim for qualified immunity from prisoner civil rights complaints. Relying on 14 Richardson, the Ninth Circuit in Jensen held that qualified immunity was categorically 15 unavailable as a defense to § 1983 claims against a private physician, who provided mental 16 health services for a county under a contract. The Jensen court concluded that the same 17 reasoning from Richardson applied: that there was no firmly rooted tradition for such a claim of 18 immunity and that “unwarranted timidity was a problem that would be overcome by market 19 forces as various firms vied to provide safe and efficient prison services.” Jensen, at 577-578 20 (citing Richardson at 408-411).

21 The Court will not reach Defendants’ claim for qualified immunity. It is unnecessary 22 because Plaintiff has failed to point to any evidence that his constitutional rights have been 23 violated. No additional analysis is required. Kennedy v. City of Ridgefield, 439 F.3d 1055, 1060 24

1 (9th Cir. 2006). Moreover, in light of the Ninth Circuit’s holding in Jensen, whether qualified 2 immunity is available as a defense is doubtful.

3 2. Conclusion Regarding Individual Defendants

4 Defendants’ motion to summarily dismiss Plaintiffs’ claims against the individual 5 Defendants for violation of his constitutional rights (Dkt. 61) should be granted. Claims against 6 these parties should be dismissed.

7 D. MONELL CLAIMS

8 A municipality or other local government may be liable under § 1983 “if the 9 governmental body itself subjects a person to a deprivation of rights or causes a person to be 10 subjected to such deprivation.” Connick v. Thompson, 131 S. Ct. 1350, 1359 (2011)(internal 11 quotations and citations omitted). A municipality is not vicariously liable under § 1983 for their 12 employees’ actions, but “only for their own illegal acts.” Id. Instead, it is when “execution of a 13 government's policy or custom ... inflicts the injury that the government as an entity is 14 responsible under § 1983.” Monell, 436 U.S. at 694. “Plaintiffs who seek to impose liability on 15 local governments under § 1983 must prove that action pursuant to official municipal policy 16 caused their injury.” Id. Official municipal policy includes the decisions of the municipality's 17 lawmakers, “the acts of its policymaking officials, and practices so persistent and widespread as 18 to practically have the force of law.” Id.

19 In order to assert a § 1983 Monell claim based on “customs and policies,” a Plaintiff must 20 show: “(1) that he was deprived of his constitutional rights by defendants and their employees 21 acting under color of state law; (2) that the defendants have customs or policies which amount to 22 deliberate indifference to ... constitutional rights; and (3) that these policies were the moving 23
24

1 force behind the constitutional violations.” Gant v. Cnty. of Los Angeles, 772 F.3d 608, 617 (9th 2 Cir. 2014)(internal quotations and citations omitted).

3 Plaintiff has failed to show that his constitutional rights were violated. Accordingly, 4 Plaintiffs’ § 1983 claims under Monell should be dismissed. Hayes v. Cnty. of San Diego, 736 5 F.3d 1223, 1231 (9th Cir. 2013)(dismissing Monell claim where there was no violation of 6 constitutional rights)(citing Van Ort v. Estate of Stanewich, 92 F.3d 831, 835–36 (9th Cir.1996) 7 (noting that a constitutional violation is required to support Monell liability)).

8 Further, even if Plaintiff had shown that his constitutional rights were violated, he has not 9 pointed to a custom or policy that amounted to deliberate indifference to his serious medical 10 needs. Plaintiff points to the fact that Kitsap County contracted with Conmed to provide medical 11 services. He argues that contracting out the service amounts to a “delegation” of the county’s 12 responsibility. Plaintiff cites no authority for this proposition. Kitsap County is still responsible 13 for the medical care of the inmates in its care, whether it hires county employees to do the work 14 or uses a contractor. West v. Atkins, 487 U.S. 42, 56 (U.S. 1988) (holding “[c]ontracting out 15 prison medical care does not relieve the State of its constitutional duty to provide adequate 16 medical treatment to those in its custody, and it does not deprive the State's prisoners of the 17 means to vindicate their Eighth Amendment rights”). Plaintiff establishes no basis to conclude 18 that the fact that Kitsap County contracted with Conmed for the provision of medical services is 19 a custom or policy which demonstrates deliberate indifference to Plaintiff’s serious medical 20 needs.

21 Plaintiff argues that RCW 70.48.130 was violated and references this statute in his 22 discussion of the Kitsap County’s policies. In particular, he points to RCW 70.48.130 (8), which 23 provides “[u]nder no circumstance shall necessary medical services be denied or delayed because 24

1 of disputes over the cost of medical care or a determination of financial responsibility for 2 payment of the costs of medical care provided to confined persons.” He makes no showing that 3 the statute was violated. There is no evidence in the record regarding “disputes over the costs of 4 medical care” for Plaintiff or disputes over “a determination of financial responsibility for 5 payment” for Plaintiff’s care. Even if the statute was violated, he provides no explanation as to 6 how violation of the statute amounts to deliberate indifference to his serious medical needs.

7 Plaintiff asserts that the Kitsap County had a medical furlough policy - that in cases of a 8 non-emergency, an inmate, or, if they are represented, their lawyer, must fill out medical 9 furlough paperwork and present it to the court if they wish to receive medical treatment outside 10 the jail. He argues that this policy amounts to deliberate indifference to his medical needs. He 11 asserts that it is a means to “delay and deny care and to shirk the expense of care.” Dkt. 68, at 7.
12 Plaintiff points to no evidence or explanation to support these conclusions. Neither Plaintiff nor 13 his lawyer ever filled out the forms or applied to the court for a medical furlough. Plaintiff 14 makes no showing that the Kitsap County jail had authority to release him for non-emergency 15 medical care without a court order. Moreover, Plaintiff has repeatedly asserted that he was 16 receiving care through the VA. There is no evidence that Kitsap County or its contractor, 17 Conmed, was considering cost in its treatment of Plaintiff.

18 Plaintiff includes, as an attachment to his Response, Cooper v. City of Cottage Grove, 19 2014 WL 4187558 (Dist of Oregon August 21, 2014). Dkt. 68-1, at 2. This case is unhelpful to 20 Plaintiff. In that case, a small jail did not provide medical services at all, but used paramedics 21 and medical furloughs in an attempt to meet its constitutional obligations regarding the medical 22 needs of its inmates. Id. The estate of an inmate addicted to heroin, who lost 60 pounds in 9 23 days, was vomiting blood, and eventually died of aspiration pneumonia in the jail’s care brought 24
