8 MEGAN DOUGLAS,

9 Plaintiff,

v.

10 NATIONAL RAILROAD PASSENGER
11 CORPORATION, d/b/a AMTRAK,

12 Defendant.

CASE NO. C18-5451 BHS

ORDER DENYING
DEFENDANT'S MOTION FOR A
PROTECTIVE ORDER

13 This matter comes before the Court on Defendant National Railroad Passenger 14 Corporation's ("Amtrak") motion for a protective order. Dkt. 9. The Court has 15 considered the pleadings filed in support of and in opposition to the motion and the 16 remainder of the file and hereby denies the motion for the reasons stated herein.

17 I. PROCEDURAL AND FACTUAL BACKGROUND

18 On December 18, 2018, Plaintiff Megan Douglas ("Douglas") boarded Amtrak
19 Train No. 501 originating in Seattle, WA. About 40 miles south of Seattle, the train
20 entered a corner at a high rate of speed and derailed. On June 7, 2018, Douglas filed a
21 complaint against Amtrak. Dkt. 1. Douglas asserts claims for negligence and a violation

1 of Washington’s Consumer Protection Act, RCW Chapter 19.86 (“CPA”), and seeks “all 2 economic and non-economic damages along with all compensatory, pecuniary and
3 exemplary damages.” Id. ¶ 6.1.

4 On July 16, 2018, Amtrak answered and conceded that it “will not contest liability
5 for compensatory damages proximately caused by the derailment of Train 501 on 6 December 18, 2017.” Dkt. 8, ¶ 4.3.

7 On August 22, 2018, Amtrak filed a motion for a protective order. Dkt. 9.
8 Amtrak seeks an order that limits discovery to compensatory damages or, in the 9 alternative, defers discovery until after the National Transportation Safety Board
10 (“NTSB”) issues its final report on the accident. Id. On August 29, 2018, Douglas 11 responded. Dkt. 15. On August 31, 2019, Amtrak replied. Dkt. 17. On October 11, 12 2018, Douglas filed a supplemental declaration and a letter from the Office of the 13 General Counsel for the NTSB regarding the disclosure of investigative information
14 (“NTSB Letter”). Dkt. 21.

15 II. DISCUSSION

16 “Parties may obtain discovery regarding any nonprivileged matter that is relevant 17 to any party’s claim or defense and proportional to the needs of the case.” Fed. R. Civ. P.
18 26(b)(1). However, “the court must limit the frequency or extent of discovery [if] . . . the 19 proposed discovery is outside the scope permitted by Rule 26(b)(1).” Fed. R. Civ. P.
20 26(b)(2)(C). “The court may, for good cause, issue an order to protect a party from . . .
21 undue burden or expense.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(c)(1). When a defendant admits liability
22 for all damages caused to a plaintiff, the court may limit discovery to damages. See

1 Broncel v. H & R Transp., Ltd., 2011 WL 319822, (E.D. Cal. Jan. 28, 2011) (holding that
2 plaintiff was not entitled to depose defendant Wilson because defendants had already
3 admitted liability); Ayat v. Societe Air France, 2008 WL 114936, (N.D. Cal. Jan. 8, 2008)
4 (holding further discovery into liability not warranted because defendant did not contest
5 liability and only asserted three affirmative defenses, all related to damages).

6 In this case, Amtrak’s “discovery” motion is a thinly veiled motion for dispositive
7 relief. For example, Amtrak argues that the Court should apply “Washington law to the 8 issue of punitive damages and no discovery on this topic should be permitted.” Dkt. 9 at 9 10–11. Choice of law, however, is an issue in this case, and Douglas has shown that
10 some authority exists for the Court to allow punitive damages under another jurisdiction’s
11 law. See Dkt. 15 at 9–11. To the extent punitive damages is an issue in this case,
12 discovery related to this issue is relevant, and Amtrak may only obtain a protective order
13 if it establishes that the requested discovery is disproportional to the needs of the case, 14 otherwise unduly burdensome or unnecessarily expensive, or lacks importance to the 15 issues at stake. Amtrak has failed to show that any of these circumstances warrant a
16 limitation on relevant discovery. The same is true of Amtrak’s attempt to limit discovery
17 related to comparative fault and Douglas’s CPA claim. Therefore, the Court denies 18 Amtrak’s motion for a protective order on the relevance of certain discovery.

19 Amtrak also seeks a stay of some discovery until the NTSB issues its final report.
20 Dkt. 9 at 12. However, according to the NTSB Letter, Amtrak may disclose some 21 information as long as it is subject to a protective order as explained in the letter. See
22 NTSB Letter (“the NTSB no longer objects to disclosing some of the information

1 requested as long as a protective order is in place”). Amtrak should produce this
2 information in due course. Regarding other information, the NTSB directed Amtrak not
3 to produce some information pursuant to its investigative hold. Amtrak should produce a
4 privilege log of documents under hold and produce that log in due course. In any event,
5 Amtrak has failed to show good cause for a stay of discovery pending the NTSB issuing a 6 final report.

7 III. ORDER

8 Therefore, it is hereby ORDERED that Amtrak’s motion for a protective order,
9 Dkt. 9, is DENIED.

10 Dated this 18th day of October, 2018.
