CASE NO. 3:22-cv-05563-LK

ORDER GRANTING PLAINTIFFS'
MOTION FOR SUMMARY
JUDGMENT

16 Plaintiffs West American Insurance Company (“West American”) and North Pacific 17 Insurance Company (“North Pacific”) seek a judgment permitting them to withdraw their legal 18 defense of Defendant Del Ray Properties, Inc. (“Del Ray”) in a pending lawsuit in Cowlitz County 19 Superior Court. Before the Court is Plaintiffs’ Motion for Summary Judgment. Dkt. No. 3.
20 Defendants Del Ray, the City of Longview, and Sharon Doerr have not appeared or defended in 21 this action. For the reasons stated below, Plaintiffs’ motion is GRANTED.<sup>1</sup>

23
24 <sup>1</sup> Plaintiffs requested oral argument. Dkt. No. 3 at 1. However, the Court has determined it can rule without oral argument.

I. BACKGROUND

A. Underlying State Court Lawsuit

Del Ray is a Washington corporation that operates two mobile home parks in the city of Longview. Dkt. No. 1 at 2–3. In August 2016, Longview sued Del Ray in Cowlitz County Superior Court for failing to pay its utility bills. Dkt. No. 4-1; see also Dkt. No. 1-5 (Longview’s amended complaint). In September 2017, the Superior Court consolidated Longview’s lawsuit with two other related actions brought by Del Ray residents—Sharon Doerr and Randall Beck—under Cowlitz County Superior Court Cause No. 17-2-00870-08. Dkt. No. 4-4; see also Dkt. No. 1-6 (Doerr complaint); Dkt. No. 1-7 (Beck complaint). The Court refrains from reciting the entire history of the underlying state court proceedings, see Dkt. No. 1 at 3–10; Dkt. No. 3 at 4–9, but briefly summarizes a few additional details relevant to Plaintiffs’ motion.

In its amended complaint, Longview alleges that Del Ray owes it approximately $50,000 for unpaid utility bills at Del Ray’s two mobile home park locations. Dkt. No. 1-5 at 3. Longview claims that it “made a demand for payment of [Del Ray’s] delinquent utility charges” but Del Ray “failed to make payment for past or current utility service.” Id. As a result, Longview seeks to recover damages in the amount it is owed plus pre- and post-judgment interest and attorney fees. Id. After Longview initiated its action, Del Ray residents Sharon Doerr and Randall Beck filed suit, alleging that Del Ray “knowingly and willfully failed to pay the City of Longview utility bills,” placing them at risk of Longview turning off the water and discontinuing garbage service to Del Ray residents. Dkt. No. 1-6 at 2, 4; Dkt. No. 1-7 at 2–3, 5–6. Accordingly, they request injunctive relief and damages based on, among other things, violations of Washington’s Manufactured/Mobile Home Landlord-Tenant and Consumer Protection Acts, Wash. Rev. Code. §§ 59.20.070(6), 19.86.020, breach of contract, and infliction of emotional distress. Dkt. No. 1-6

1 at 5–8; Dkt. No. 1-7 at 7–11.<sup>2</sup> On February 9, 2021, the Superior Court dismissed Beck’s claims
2 with prejudice. Dkt. No. 14-1. Based on the available records, however, Longview and Doerr’s 3 claims remain pending. Dkt. No. 4-11.

4 On January 30, 2018, January 23, 2019, and July 12, 2022, Plaintiffs issued reservation of 5 rights letters to Del Ray agreeing to defend it in the consolidated state court action, but reserving 6 their right to disclaim insurance coverage. Dkt. Nos. 5-3–5-5; see also Dkt. No. 5 at 2.

7 B. Del Ray’s Insurance Policies

8 This case centers on two insurance policies issued to Del Ray: (1) West American’s 9 Commercial General Liability Policy No. BKW (17) 57 42 82 52, for the policy period beginning 10 October 25, 2016 and ending on October 25, 2017 (“General Liability Policy”); and (2) North 11 Pacific’s Businessowners Policy No. BOP 12-62-60, for the policy period beginning October 25, 12 2015 and ending on October 25, 2016, (“Businessowners Policy”). Dkt. No. 3 at 10, 15; see Dkt.
13 No. 5-1 (copy of General Liability Policy); Dkt. No. 5-2 (copy of Businessowners Policy).

14 1. West American’s General Liability Policy

15 West American’s General Liability Policy provides that it will defend Del Ray in suits 16 seeking “damages because of ‘bodily injury’ or ‘property damage’” caused by an “occurrence” 17 and unknown prior to the policy period. Dkt. No. 5-1 at 61. “Bodily injury” is defined as “physical 18 injury, sickness or disease sustained by a person,” including “mental anguish, mental injury, shock, 19 fright or death that results from such physical injury, sickness or disease.” Id. at 99. “Property 20 damage” is defined as “[p]hysical injury to tangible property, including all resulting loss of use of 21 that property,” or “[l]oss of use of tangible property that is not physically injured.” Id. at 76–77.

23 <sup>2</sup> The Superior Court granted Doerr’s request for a preliminary injunction on August 9, 2017, and ordered Del Ray to 24 pay $1,609.73 in outstanding water and sewer service bills. Dkt. No. 4-6. Although it appears Del Ray did not comply with the entirety of this order, see Dkt. No. 4-7 at 3–4, the record is devoid of evidence indicating that Longview has in fact turned off utility services for Del Ray residents during the pendency of litigation.

1 And an “occurrence” means “an accident, including continuous or repeated exposure to 2 substantially the same general harmful conditions.” Id. at 76. The policy also provides coverage 3 for damages because of “personal and advertising injury,” which includes “[t]he wrongful eviction 4 from, wrongful entry into, or invasion of the right of private occupancy of a room, dwelling or 5 premises that a person occupies[.]” Id. at 66, 76.

6 Importantly, the policy contains several exclusions. It excludes coverage for bodily injury 7 or property damage “expected or intended from the standpoint of the insured.” Id. at 100. It also 8 does not apply to personal and advertising injuries “caused by or at the direction of the insured 9 with the knowledge that the act would violate the rights of another and would inflict [such injury],” 10 knowingly false publications, breach of contract, and for such injury arising out of the failure of 11 services “to conform with any statement of quality or performance made” through advertisement.
12 Id. at 67. The policy further excludes “‘[p]roperty damage’ to ‘impaired property’ or property that 13 has not been physically injured, arising out of . . . [a] delay or failure by [the insured] or anyone 14 acting on [its] behalf to perform a contract or agreement in accordance with its terms.” Id. at 65.

15 2. North Pacific’s Businessowners Policy

16 North American’s Businessowners Policy is “organized somewhat differently,” but 17 “contains substantively identical coverages and exclusion.” Dkt. No. 3 at 15. The policy covers 18 “those sums that the insured becomes legally obligated to pay as damages because of ‘bodily 19 injury’, ‘property damage’ or ‘personal and advertising injury’ to which this insurance applies.” 20 Dkt. No. 5-2 at 41. Like the General Liability Policy, the Businessowners Policy is limited to 21 bodily injury or property damages “caused by an ‘occurrence’” and unknown prior to the policy 22 period. Id. at 41–42. “Bodily injury” is defined by the policy as “bodily injury, sickness or disease 23 sustained by a person[.]” Id. at 52. “Property damage” is defined as “[p]hysical injury to tangible 24 property, including all resulting loss of use of that property,” or “[l]oss of use of tangible property

1 that is not physically injured.” Id. at 54. “Occurrence” means “an accident, including continuous 2 or repeated exposure to substantially the same general harmful conditions.” Id. And “[p]ersonal 3 and advertising injury,” is defined as “injury, including consequential ‘bodily injury’, arising out 4 of” certain offenses, including “[t]he wrongful eviction from, wrongful entry into, or invasion of 5 the right of private occupancy of a room, dwelling or premises that a person occupies[.]” Id. As 6 for exclusions, the Businessowners Policy includes the same material exclusions as the General 7 Liability Policy. See id. at 43, 47.

8 C. Plaintiffs’ Declaratory Judgment Action

9 On August 3, 2022, Plaintiffs initiated this lawsuit seeking a declaratory judgment that, 10 based on the claims and damages asserted in the underlying state court action, no liability coverage 11 applies to Del Ray. Dkt. No. 1 at 18–19. The same day, Plaintiffs moved for summary judgment.
12 Dkt. No. 3. Plaintiffs effectuated service on Del Ray, Longview, and Doerr, but no Defendant has 13 appeared or defended in this matter. Dkt. Nos. 12, 15–16. Accordingly, upon Plaintiffs’ motion, 14 Dkt. No. 17, the Clerk of Court entered default against Defendants, Dkt. No. 19.<sup>3</sup>

15 II. DISCUSSION

16 A. Jurisdiction

17 This Court has subject matter jurisdiction under 28 U.S.C. § 1332(a) because there is 18 complete diversity of citizenship and the amount in controversy exceeds $75,000. See Dkt. No. 1 19

20 <sup>3</sup> Some courts have found summary judgment to be “an inapt procedural vehicle” when defendants are in default, 21 instead requiring litigants to proceed with motions for default judgment. See, e.g., Phillips Factors Corp. v. Harbor
22 Lane of Pensacola, Inc., 648 F. Supp. 1580, 1583 (M.D.N.C. 1986); Fed. Trade Comm’n v. CD Cap. Invs., LLC, No.
23 14-CV-141033-JLS-RNBX, 2016 WL 11756828, at *7–8 (C.D. Cal. Mar. 1, 2016); Cont’l Ins. Co. v. Huff Enterprises
24 Inc., No. 07-CV-3821-NGG, 2009 WL 3756630, at *2–3 (E.D.N.Y. Nov. 6, 2009). However, nothing in Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 56 precludes Plaintiffs from proceeding with their motion for summary judgment in this case, particularly where no concurrent motion for default judgment is pending. See, e.g., Am. Fam. Mut. Ins. Co. SI v. Bell, No. C18-5979-RBL, 2019 WL 2339965, at *1 (W.D. Wash. June 3, 2019); German Am. Fin. Advisors & Tr. Co. v.
Rigsby, No. 3:14-CV-00118-RLY, 2015 WL 672244, at *1 (S.D. Ind. Feb. 17, 2015), aff’d, 623 F. App’x 806 (7th Cir. 2015).

1 at 1–2; Dkt. No. 22 at 2.<sup>4</sup> Furthermore, the Court finds that this case presents an “actual case or 2 controversy” under the Declaratory Judgments Act, 28 U.S.C. § 2201, and that the discretionary 3 exercise of jurisdiction is warranted. See Am. States Ins. Co. v. Kearns, 15 F.3d 142, 143–45 (9th 4 Cir. 1994).

5 The “philosophic touchstone” for district courts when determining whether to exercise 6 discretion to retain jurisdiction over a declaratory judgment action are the factors outlined by the 7 Supreme Court in Brillhart v. Excess Ins. Co., 316 U.S. 491 (1942). Am. Cas. Co. of Reading,
8 Pennsylvania v. Krieger, 181 F.3d 1113, 1118 (9th Cir. 1999) (quotation marks omitted); accord
9 Argonaut Ins. Co. v. St. Francis Med. Ctr., 17 F.4th 1276, 1280, 1284 (9th Cir. 2021). As a general 10 rule, Brillhart directs that the court should avoid needless determinations of state law issues, 11 discourage litigants from filing declaratory actions as a means of forum shopping, and avoid 12 duplicative litigation. Gov’t Emps. Ins. Co. v. Dizol, 133 F.3d 1220, 1225 (9th Cir. 1998) (en banc).
13 In addition, “[i]f there are parallel state proceedings involving the same issues and parties pending 14 at the time the federal declaratory action is filed, there is a presumption that the entire suit should 15 be heard in state court.” Id.; see also id. at 1225 n.5 (noting that the Brillhart factors are “not 16 exhaustive,” and listing additional consideration such as whether the declaratory action (1) “will 17 settle all aspects of the controversy;” (2) “will serve a useful purpose in clarifying the legal 18 relations at issue;” (3) “is being sought merely for the purposes of procedural fencing or to obtain

20
21 <sup>4</sup> The complaint alleges that West American is organized under the laws of Indiana and maintains its principal place 22 of business in Massachusetts, and that North Pacific is organized under the laws of Oregon and maintains its principal 23 place of business in Massachusetts. Dkt. No. 1 at 1–2. Separately, Plaintiffs allege that Longview is a Washington 24 governmental entity and that Doerr resides in Washington. Id. at 2. After failing to allege Del Ray’s principal place of business, the Court ordered Plaintiffs to show cause as to Del Ray’s corporate citizenship. Dkt. No. 21. Plaintiffs timely responded, averring that Del Ray is a Washington corporation with its principal place of business in Washington. Dkt. No. 22 at 2; Dkt. Nos. 23-1–23-3. Accordingly, the Court is satisfied that there is complete diversity of citizenship.

1 a res judicata advantage;” or (4) “will result in entanglement between the federal and state court 2 systems.” (cleaned up)).

3 Here, despite the existence of an arguably parallel state proceeding arising from the same 4 factual circumstances, involving some of the same parties, and implicating an area of law 5 (insurance) regulated by the states, see, e.g., Nautilus Ins. Co. v. RMB Enterprises, Inc., 497 F.
6 Supp. 3d 936, 949–51 (D. Haw. 2020), the Court finds that exercising jurisdiction over Plaintiffs’
7 request for a declaration is appropriate under the Brillhart factors. As an initial matter, Plaintiffs 8 are not party to the underlying state court action, that suit does not include the insurance coverage 9 issue, and this Court’s adjudication of the coverage dispute is not contingent on any further state 10 court proceedings. See Krieger, 181 F.3d at 1119. Second, Plaintiffs’ preference for federal 11 resolution of their claim on the basis of diversity jurisdiction does not on its own establish forum 12 shopping. See First State Ins. Co. v. Callan Assocs., Inc., 113 F.3d 161, 162 (9th Cir. 1997)
13 (“Although occasionally stigmatized as ‘forum shopping,’ the desire for a federal forum is assured 14 by the constitutional provision for diversity jurisdiction and the congressional statute 15 implementing Article III.”). And last, the Court does not find this litigation to be duplicative given 16 that Del Ray’s ultimate liability is not at issue here. Therefore, the Court will, as a matter of 17 discretion, exercise jurisdiction over Plaintiffs’ claims.

18 B. Summary Judgment Standard

19 Summary judgment is appropriate only when “the movant shows that there is no genuine 20 dispute as to any material fact and the movant is entitled to judgment as a matter of law.” Fed. R.
21 Civ. P. 56(a); see Celotex Corp. v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 322 (1986). A fact is “material” if it 22 could affect the outcome of the case, and a dispute over a material fact is “genuine” if “the evidence 23 is such that a reasonable jury could return a verdict for the nonmoving party.” Anderson v. Liberty 24 Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 248 (1986). In other words, the relevant inquiry is “whether the evidence

1 presents a sufficient disagreement to require submission to a jury or whether it is so one-sided that 2 one party must prevail as a matter of law.” Id. at 251–52. At the summary judgment phase, courts
3 view the facts and draw all reasonable inferences in favor of the non-movant. Scott v. Harris, 550 4 U.S. 372, 378 (2007).

5 C. Plaintiffs Are Entitled to Summary Judgment

6 Plaintiffs argue they are entitled to summary judgment because the pleadings against Del 7 Ray in the underlying action are either not covered by the policies or fall under one of the 8 exclusions. Dkt. No. 3 at 20–34. Plaintiffs also seek reimbursement of defense costs incurred after 9 the issuance of the July 12, 2022 reservation of rights letter. Id. at 34–36; see Dkt. No. 1-14 at 9, 10 13–14.

11 1. Plaintiffs have no duty to defend Del Ray under either the General Liability Policy or 12 the Businessowners Policy

13 “Interpretation of insurance policies is a question of law, in which the policy is construed 14 as a whole and each clause is given force and effect.” Evanston Ins. Co. v. Clartre, Inc., 158 F.
15 Supp. 3d 1110, 1114 (W.D. Wash. 2016) (quoting Overton v. Consol. Ins. Co., 38 P.3d 322, 325 16 (Wash. 2002)). The standard for interpreting insurance contracts in Washington is well-settled: the 17 words “should be construed according to their ordinary meaning, according to how an average 18 person would read the terms, as opposed to applying any technical interpretation.” Canal Ins. Co.
19 v. YMV Transp., Inc., 867 F. Supp. 2d 1099, 1104 (W.D. Wash. 2011); accord Weyerhaeuser Co.
20 v. Com. Union Ins. Co., 15 P.3d 115, 122 (Wash. 2000).

21 The duty to defend “arises when a complaint against the insured, construed liberally, 22 alleges facts which could, if proven, impose liability upon the insured within the policy’s 23 coverage.” Expedia, Inc. v. Steadfast Ins. Co., 329 P.3d 59, 64 (Wash. 2014) (cleaned up). Whether 24 an insurer has a duty to defend is therefore generally determined from the “eight corners” of the 1 insurance contract and underlying complaint. Id. at 64. However, if coverage “is not clear from the 2 face of the complaint but . . . could exist, the insurer must investigate and give the insured the 3 benefit of the doubt on the duty to defend.” Id. at 65. Further, “if the allegations in the complaint 4 conflict with facts known to the insurer or . . . are ambiguous, facts outside the complaint may be 5 considered.” Id.; see also Truck Ins. Exch. v. Vanport Homes, Inc., 58 P.3d 276, 282 (Wash. 2002).

6 When inquiring whether a duty to defend exists, courts construe ambiguous complaints liberally 7 in favor of triggering the duty, and construe exclusionary clauses strictly against the insurer. Woo 8 v. Fireman’s Fund Ins. Co., 164 P.3d 454, 459 (Wash. 2007). But “alleged claims which are clearly 9 not covered by the policy relieve the insurer of its duty.” Kirk v. Mt. Airy Ins. Co., 951 P.2d 1124, 10 1126 (Wash. 1998). Because these determinations often “turn on the purely legal questions of 11 interpretation of insurance policies and complaints, they are routinely resolved at the summary 12 judgment stage.” Evanston, 158 F. Supp. 3d at 1114.

13 Here, Plaintiffs may withdraw their defense of Del Ray pursuant to the General Liability 14 Policy and Businessowners Policy because even when construed liberally, the underlying 15 allegations do not land within the scope of policy coverage.

16 (a) Doerr’s allegations

17 Doerr’s complaint avers that Del Ray “knowingly and willfully” failed to pay its utility 18 bills. Dkt. No. 1-6 at 2, 4–5. She asserts claims for injunctive relief and damages for violations of 19 Washington’s Manufactured/Mobile Home Landlord-Tenant and Consumer Protection Acts, 20 Wash. Rev. Code. §§ 59.20.070(6), 19.86.020, breach of contract, and emotional distress. Id. at 6– 21 8.<sup>5</sup> Because Doerr alleges knowing and deliberate misconduct on the part of Del Ray, proving her

22
23 <sup>5</sup> The Court need not address Beck’s allegations in the underlying complaint given that he was dismissed from the 24 state court action in February 2021 and “[t]here are no current claims asserted by Beck against Del Ray.” Dkt. No. 3 at 7; Dkt. No. 14-1. However, given the substantial overlap between the Beck and Doerr complaints, the Court’s reasoning would apply with equal force to his claims.

1 claim will not result in a showing of “bodily injury” or “property damage,” caused by an 2 “occurrence,” i.e., “an accident,” as necessary to trigger Plaintiffs’ duty to defend under either 3 policy. See Dkt. No. 5-1 at 61, 76; Dkt. No. 5-2 at 41, 54; see also Dkt. No. 3 at 26–27; Safeco Ins.
4 Co. of Am. v. Lenz, No. C22-442-RSM, 2023 WL 2018002, at *4 (W.D. Wash. Feb. 14, 2023)
5 (“Under the common law definition of ‘accident,’ reasonably foreseeable harm resulting from 6 deliberate conduct is not an ‘accident’ and, thus, not an ‘occurrence’ under the Policy at issue.”).
7 And even if her alleged injuries or damages were proven to be caused by an “occurrence,” coverage 8 would be precluded by the exclusion for injuries or damages “expected or intended from the 9 standpoint of [Del Ray],” given that the complained-of conduct is knowingly failing to pay the 10 utility bills. Dkt. No. 5-1 at 100; Dkt. No. 5-2 at 43; see also Dkt. No. 3 at 27–28. Similarly, with 11 respect to “personal and advertising injury,” assuming Doerr could show such injury as defined by 12 the predicate offenses listed in the policies, multiple exclusions would prevent coverage; namely, 13 the exclusions for the knowing violation of the rights of another and breach of contract. See Dkt.
14 No. 5-1 at 67, 76; Dkt. No. 5-2 at 47, 54; Dkt. No. 3 at 32–34.

15 (b) Longview’s allegations

16 Longview’s two-page amended complaint alleges that Del Ray established utility accounts 17 for each of its mobile home park locations and became delinquent on payment. Dkt. No. 1-5 at 2– 18 3. Longview titles its amended complaint as being for “monies owed,” and in addition to a 19 judgment in the amount of its unpaid utility bills, also seeks interest and fees. Id. Like Doerr, the 20 allegations in Longview’s amended complaint cannot be construed as constituting bodily injury, 21 property damage, or personal and advertising injury as defined in Plaintiffs’ policies. Under either 22 the General Liability Policy or Businessowners Policy, “bodily injury” requires an injury 23 “sustained by a person,” which is not applicable to Longview, a government entity. Dkt. No. 5-1 24 at 99; Dkt. No. 5-2 at 52. Moreover, “property damage” necessitates injury to, or the loss of use of

1 “tangible property,” as opposed to pure money damages. Dkt. No. 5-1 at 76–77; Dkt. No. 5-2 at 2 54; see Dkt. No. 3 at 21–22; State Farm Fire & Cas. Co. v. Heather Ridge, L.P., No. C12-1085-
 3 RSM, 2013 WL 179713, at *3–4 (W.D. Wash. Jan. 15, 2013) (reasoning that breach of contract 4 claims do not assert injury to tangible property because they are economic in nature); Scottsdale 5 Ins. Co. v. Int’l Protective Agency, Inc., 19 P.3d 1058, 1061 (Wash. Ct. App. 2001) (defining 6 “tangible property” as property that has “physical form and substance” (cleaned up)). And like 7 Doerr’s allegations, any “personal and advertising injury” would be subject to the applicable
 8 exclusions for the knowing violation of the rights of another and breach of contract. Dkt. No. 5-1 9 at 67, 76; Dkt. No. 5-2 at 47, 54; Dkt. No. 3 at 32–34.

10 For the foregoing reasons, the Court concludes that Plaintiffs have no duty to defend Del 11 Ray in the underlying litigation.

12 2. Plaintiffs have no duty to indemnify Del Ray under either the General Liability Policy 13 or the Businessowners Policy

14 Plaintiffs also seek a declaration that they have no duty to indemnify Del Ray for liability 15 arising from the underlying lawsuit. Whereas the duty to defend is triggered when a complaint 16 alleges facts which could impose liability, the duty to indemnify is narrower and only “applies to 17 claims that are actually covered[.]” Nat’l Sur. Corp. v. Immunex Corp., 297 P.3d 688, 691 (Wash.
 18 2013) (emphasis in original); accord Woo, 164 P.3d at 459; see also Hay v. Am. Safety Indem. Co., 19 752 F. App’x 460, 461 (9th Cir. 2018). For the same reasons supporting the finding that Plaintiffs 20 have no duty to defend Del Ray in the state court action, the Court concludes that any liability Del 21 Ray may ultimately incur in that lawsuit would unambiguously fall outside the scope of the 22 policies’ coverage.<sup>6</sup> Accordingly, Plaintiffs have no duty to indemnify Del Ray in the underlying

23 <sup>6</sup> At this point, the underlying action remains pending in Cowlitz County Superior Court and any liability Del Ray has 24 incurred thus far appears primarily based on its conduct during the litigation. See, e.g., Dkt. No. 4-7 (finding Del Ray in contempt of court and awarding attorney’s fees). However, the Ninth Circuit has long held that a claim for declaratory relief on an insurer’s duty to indemnify “was sufficiently ripe, even when the underlying liability action

1 litigation and may withdraw from defense. See Mid-Century Ins. Co. v. Hunt's Plumbing & Mech.
2 LLC, No. C19-0285-JLR, 2019 WL 4464302, at *8 (W.D. Wash. Sept. 17, 2019) (“Where there is 3 no duty to defend or indemnify, an insurer is entitled to withdraw from defense.”).

4 3. Plaintiffs are entitled to seek reimbursement of defense costs from the date of the July 5 12, 2022 reservation of rights letter

6 As for Plaintiffs’ contention that they may recover costs incurred defending in the 7 underlying action starting from the July 12, 2022 reservation of rights letter, the Court finds that 8 the relevant policy language permits such efforts. Specifically, the Businessowner Policy states:

9 If we initially defend an insured or pay for an insured’s defense but later determine 10 that none of the claims, for which we provided a defense or defense costs, are covered under this insurance, we have the right to reimbursement for the defense costs we have incurred.

11 The right to reimbursement under this provision will only apply to the costs we 12 have incurred after we notify you in writing that there may not be coverage and that we are reserving our rights to terminate the defense of the payment of defense costs and to seek reimbursement for defense costs.

13 See Dkt. No. 5-2 at 76; see Dkt. No. 5-1 at 174 (same for General Liability Policy). In their July 14 2022 letter, Plaintiffs state that under the above endorsement, they have “the right to 15 reimbursement” for the costs initially paid to defend Del Ray if it is later determined that the claims 16 for which they provided a defense are not covered under the policies. See Dkt. No. 1-14 at 16, 18.

17 Under Washington law, insurers generally may not seek reimbursement for defense costs 18 incurred while their duty to defend remains uncertain. See Immunex, 297 P.3d at 693–95. As the 19 Washington Supreme Court explained, “[t]his ‘all reward, no risk’ proposition renders the defense 20 portion of a reservation of rights defense illusory” because “[t]he insured receives no greater 21 benefit than if its insurer had refused to defend outright.” Id. at 694 (emphasis in original).

in state court had not yet proceeded to judgment.” Kearns, 15 F.3d at 144; see also Safeco Ins. Co. of Am. v. Young, 24 No. 2:22-CV-00896-BJR, 2022 WL 4754922, at *4 (W.D. Wash. Oct. 3, 2022) (granting summary judgment on declaratory judgment claim seeking ruling on duty to indemnify even though underlying lawsuit remained pending).

1 Concluding otherwise would mean that an insurer’s “‘offer’ to defend would serve solely to protect 2 itself from claims of breach while placing the full risk of a determination of noncoverage on its 3 insured.” Id. On the other hand, at least one court in this district has found that when the insurance 4 policy at issue contains language reserving the right to recover defense costs if a court ultimately 5 determines that no duty to defend exists, recoupment is allowed. See Massachusetts Bay Ins. Co.
6 v. Walflor Indus., Inc., 383 F. Supp. 3d 1148, 1166–69 (W.D. Wash. 2019) (upholding a virtually 7 identical endorsement permitting insurer to recoup the defense costs it paid in an underlying 8 lawsuit). The court in Massachusetts Bay reasoned that unlike in Immunex, where the court 9 rejected an independent right to recoupment untethered to any express policy—effectively 10 allowing an insurer “‘to impose a condition on its defense that was not bargained for’”—policies 11 with express endorsements stating that insurers are entitled “‘to seek reimbursement for defense 12 costs” are permissible. Id. at 1167 (quoting Immunex, 297 P.3d at 694).

13 In this case, the Court finds that Plaintiffs’ ability to recover costs incurred defending in 14 the underlying suit was explicitly bargained for, and is therefore valid under the relevant policy 15 endorsements. In light of the Court’s ruling on Plaintiffs’ motion for summary judgment, Plaintiffs 16 may seek reimbursement of defense costs incurred after July 12, 2022.

17 III. CONCLUSION

18 For the foregoing reasons, the Court GRANTS Plaintiffs’ motion for summary judgment.
