Device Description

The Nokia N8-00 is a powerful combination of internet, video, photos, music, maps with Symbian^3 operating system. With a large capacitive touch screen supporting pinch to zoom, social networking integration, a Carl Zeiss 12 megapixel camera with wide-angle lens and Xenon flash, shooting 720p HD video, on demand Web TV, HDMI connectivity and USB OTG, you can create, discover and share a world of creativity. Additionally, for the software developers, the device includes Qt 4.6.3, Java MIDP 2.1 and Flash Lite 4.0.

The Nokia N8-00 brings also compatibility with popular internet video formats and desktop Flash. With optimized video streaming and playback support, Nokia N8-00 provides a fantastic platform for bringing your favorite TV and other video services to a mobile computer. We have released a customizable open source Web TV app template. The template has been created and used in a collaboration with dozens of globally acclaimed broadcasters.

Tools
The main Tools & SDKs page www.forum.nokia.com/tools provides all the tools & SDKs in an easy to access form. The page also includes Getting Started -articles giving an overview of the tools and SDKs.

Carbide.c++
The latest version of Carbide.c++ is now available for download from Forum Nokia. This version offers performance improvements and new tools to all Symbian C++, Open C/C++, and Qt developers.

Nokia Qt SDK
A second maintenance release of the Nokia Qt SDK is available. The Nokia Qt SDK provides a complete toolset for creating apps targeted at Symbian and Maemo devices. Based on Qt Creator, the SDK provides for coding, testing, and building Qt apps on Microsoft Windows, Linux, and Apple Mac computers.

Symbian SDKs
Now including an updated version of the Symbian^3 SDK for Nokia Devices, the all-in-one SDKs enable application development using Qt, C++, Java™ technology, and web technology. The SDK includes all the key resources needed for application development, such as documentation, API reference, examples, and an emulator. An IDE is not included.

Specifications are subject to change without notice.
