LOBRANO, J., CONCURS WITH REASONS

I respectfully concur. I agree with the majority that summary judgment must be reversed. I write separately as I find that the plaintiff, Terrance Harbor, properly asserted a cause of action in tort against Robert Clay Barrilleaux, individually. La. Civ. Code art. 2315. La. R.S. 12:1174 does not preclude a cause of action for breach of professional duty against an incorporator, subscriber, shareholder, director, officer, employee, or agent of an architectural-engineering corporation. La. R.S. 12:1174(C) specifically provides that "[n]othing in this Chapter shall be construed as in derogation of any rights which any person may have against an incorporator, subscriber, shareholder, director, officer, employee, or agent of the corporation ... because of any breach of professional duty, or other negligent or wrongful act, by such person ... " Mere status as a shareholder, officer and/or agent of an engineering corporation does not automatically insulate an engineer from liability for his or her own negligence. For this reason, I find that the district court committed legal error in dismissing Terrance Harbor's claims against Robert Clay Barrilleaux, individually, for breach of professional duty.
