{¶1} Appellant-Father J.B. appeals the judgment of the Stark County Common Pleas Court, Juvenile Division, awarding permanent custody of his son Z.B.C. to Appellee Stark County Department of Job and Family Services.

STATEMENT OF THE FACTS AND CASE

{¶2} Appellant J.B. is the biological father of Z.B.C., born October 15, 2013. Appellee Stark County Department of Job and Family Services (SCJFS) initially became involved with Appellant and Z.B.C. when the child's mother arrived at a local emergency room with burns consistent with the possible production/manufacturing of methamphetamine.

{¶3} A search of Appellant and Mother's home found no evidence of drug production. However the home was found to be in deplorable condition. (T. at 8).

{¶4} On November 4, 2013, an emergency shelter care hearing was held where the trial court found probable cause for the involvement of SCJFS and placed Z.B.C. and his brother Z.B.C. in the emergency temporary custody of the SCJFS.

{¶5} On November 26, 2013, the trial court found the children to be dependent and placed them into the temporary custody of SCJFS. The trial court approved and adopted the case plan and found that SCJFS had made reasonable efforts to prevent the need for continued removal of the children from the home.

{¶6} On April 9, 2014, the trial court reviewed the case. The trial court approved and adopted the case plan review packet and maintained status quo.

{¶7} On September 30, 2014, the trial court again reviewed the case. The trial court approved and adopted the case plan review packet and maintained status quo.

{¶18} On October 2, 2014, SCJFS filed a motion seeking permanent custody of the children.

{¶19} On November 21, 2014, Father, through his counsel, filed a Motion to Extend Temporary Custody.

{¶10} On December 2, 2014, the trial court heard evidence on SCJFS's motion seeking permanent custody of the children. Mother, through counsel, made an oral motion at the hearing to Extend Temporary Custody. The trial court denied the SCJFS motion for Permanent Custody and granted a Temporary Custody Extension until May 3, 2015.

{¶11} On March 27, 2015, the trial court again reviewed the case. The trial court approved and adopted the case plan review packet and maintained status quo.

{¶12} On March 30, 2015, SCJFS filed a second motion seeking permanent custody of the children.

{¶13} On June 8, 2015 Father, through his counsel, filed a Motion to Extend Temporary Custody.

{¶14} On June 9, 2015 Mother, through counsel, filed a Motion to Extend Temporary Custody.

{¶15} On September 24, 2015, the trial court again reviewed the case. The trial court approved and adopted the case plan review packet and maintained status quo.

{¶16} On September 30, 2015 SCJFS filed a third motion seeking permanent custody of the children.

{¶17} On December 14, 2015, the trial court heard evidence on SCJFS's third motion seeking permanent custody of the children.

{¶18} At the permanent custody hearing, SCJFS presented evidence regarding Appellant and the children. (T. at 3-72). SCJFS caseworker Amy Craig testified for SCJFS. (T. at 5-33, 49-60). Caseworker Craig testified that the complaint in this matter was filed on November 4, 2013, and the child was found to be dependent on November 26, 2013. (T. at 8). The child at issue was placed into the temporary custody of the SCJFS on November 26, 2013. Id. As of the date of the permanent custody trial, the child had been in the temporary custody of the SCJFS in excess of 12 of the last 22 months. (T. at 9).

{¶19} Caseworker Craig further testified that Appellant had not consistently complied with his counseling at Community Services. (T. at 35-36).

{¶20} Appellant was informed that full attendance at J.B.C.'s (Z.B.C.'s brother) medical and service provider appointments was needed to demonstrate that the parents could attend them on their own. (T. at 13). J.B.C. has special needs and receives both physical therapy and speech therapy every week. Id. Appellant failed to attend those appointments on a consistent basis. Id. Appellant attended only one (1) speech therapy session and five (5) physical therapy sessions since October 1, 2015. Id. Appellant consistently made excuses for why he missed the medical appointments. Id.

{¶21} Mrs. Craig also testified that Appellant was inconsistent with visitation. (T. at 14).

{¶22} On the date of the permanent custody trial, the parent's home was infested with bedbugs despite SCJFS paying six times for an exterminator to come to their home. (T. at 15).

{¶23} Mrs. Craig testified that Appellant had not successfully completed his case plan services so the child could be returned home, and the child would be at risk if returned to Appellant. Id.

{¶24} During the best interest portion of the hearing. Mrs. Craig testified that Z.B.C. is placed in a foster home with his brother J.B.C. (T. at 51). His brother has special needs and is borderline in many areas. (T. at 52). Id. Z.B.C. is on target both developmentally and physically. (T. at 50). Z.B.C. is a typical two-year old. Id. He gets along well with everyone in his current foster home. (Tr. at 51). Mrs. Craig stated that while the current foster parents are not interested in adopting, she knew of no reason the child could not adapt to a new adoptive home. (T. at 51).

{¶25} Finally, Mrs. Craig testified that the child had been in the custody of SCJFS for two (2) years as of the date of the permanent custody hearing. (T. at 53). She further testified that while there is a bond between the child and Appellant, the benefit of permanent custody outweighed any harm that might be caused by breaking that bond. (T. at 54). Appellant had not demonstrated that he could meet the needs of the child, and the child deserved permanency. Id. Mrs. Craig testified that she believed that granting permanent custody was in the child's best interest. Id.

{¶26} Appellee SCJFS also presented the report of the Guardian-ad-Litem, which supported the granting of permanent custody as being in the best interest of the child. (T. at 68).

{¶27} On December 15, 2015, the trial court issued its findings of fact granting permanent custody of the children to SCJFS and terminating Appellant's parental rights.

{¶28} Appellant-father now appeals, assigning the following errors for review:

ASSIGNMENTS OF ERROR

{¶29} “I. THE TRIAL COURT’S JUDGMENT THAT THE MINOR CHILDREN CANNOT AND SHOULD NOT BE PLACED WITH APPELLANT WITHIN A REASONABLE PERIOD OF TIME WAS AGAINST THE MANIFEST WEIGHT AND SUFFICIENCY OF THE EVIDENCE

{¶30} A. THE TRIAL COURT ERRED IN FINDING APPELLEE MADE REASONABLE EFFORTS TO PREVENT THE NEED FOR PLACEMENT AND/OR MAKE IT POSSIBLE FOR THE CHILD TO RETURN HOME.

{¶31} “II. THE TRIAL COURT’S JUDGMENT THAT THE BEST INTEREST OF THE MINOR CHILDREN WOULD BE SERVED BY GRANTING PERMANENT CUSTODY WAS AGAINST THE MANIFEST WEIGHT AND SUFFICIENCY OF THE EVIDENCE.”

I.

{¶32} Appellant argues that the court’s finding that Z.B.C. could not be placed with him within a reasonable period of time was against the manifest weight and sufficiency of the evidence.

{¶33} Appellant argues that he substantially complied with his services and that he made significant repairs to the home.

{¶34} A trial court's decision to grant permanent custody of a child must be supported by clear and convincing evidence. The Ohio Supreme Court has defined “clear and convincing evidence” as “[t]he measure or degree of proof that will produce in the mind of the trier of fact a firm belief or conviction as to the allegations sought to be established. It is intermediate, being more than a mere preponderance, but not to the extent of such certainty, as required beyond a reasonable doubt, as in criminal cases.” Cross v. Ledford, 161 Ohio St. 469, 120 N.E.2d 118 (1954); In re: Adoption of Holcomb, 18 Ohio St.3d 361, 481 N.E.2d 613 (1985).

{¶35} In reviewing whether the trial court based its decision upon clear and convincing evidence, “a reviewing court will examine the record to determine whether the trier of facts had sufficient evidence before it to satisfy the requisite degree of proof.” State v. Schiebel, 55 Ohio St.3d 71, 74, 564 N.E.2d 54, 60 (1990); See also, C.E. Morris Co. v. Foley Constr. Co., 54 Ohio St.2d 279, 376 N.E.2d 578 (1978). If the trial court's judgment is “supported by some competent, credible evidence going to all the essential elements of the case,” a reviewing court may not reverse that judgment. Schiebel, 55 Ohio St.3d at 74, 564 N.E.2d 54.

{¶36} Moreover, “an appellate court should not substitute its judgment for that of the trial court when there exists competent and credible evidence supporting the findings of fact and conclusion of law.” Id. Issues relating to the credibility of witnesses and the weight to be given the evidence are primarily for the trier of fact. As the court explained in Seasons Coal Co. v. Cleveland, 10 Ohio St.3d 77, 80, 461 N.E.2d 1273 (1984), “The underlying rationale of giving deference to the findings of the trial court rests with the knowledge that the trial judge is best able to view the witnesses and observe their demeanor, gestures and voice inflections, and use these observations in weighing the credibility of the proffered testimony.”

{¶37} Moreover, deferring to the trial court on matters of credibility is “crucial in a child custody case, where there may be much evident in the parties' demeanor and attitude that does not translate to the record well.” Davis v. Flickinger, 77 Ohio St.3d 415,

419, 674 N.E.2d 1159 (1997); see, also, In re: Christian, 4th Dist. Athens App. No. 04CA10, 2004–Ohio–3146; In re: C. W., 2nd Dist. Montgomery App. No. 20140, 2004–Ohio–2040.

{¶38} Pursuant to §2151.414(B), the court may grant permanent custody of a child to the movant if the court determines “that it is in the best interest of the child to grant permanent custody to the agency that filed the motion for permanent custody and that any of the following apply:

(a) The child is not abandoned or orphaned, has not been in the temporary custody of one or more public children services agencies or private child placing agencies for twelve or more months of a consecutive twenty-two month period, ... and the child cannot be placed with either of the child's parents within a reasonable period of time or should not be placed with the child's parents.* * *

(d) The child has been in the temporary custody of one or more public children services agencies or private child placing agencies for twelve or more months of a consecutive twenty-two-month period, or the child has been in the temporary custody of one or more public children services agencies or private child placing agencies for twelve or more months of a consecutive twenty-two-month period and, as described in division (D)(1) of section 2151.413 of the Revised Code, the child was previously in the temporary custody of an equivalent agency in another state.

{¶39} Revised Code §2151.414(E) sets forth the factors a trial court must consider in determining whether a child cannot or should not be placed with a parent within a reasonable time. If the court finds, by clear and convincing evidence, the existence of any one of the following factors, “the court shall enter a finding that the child cannot be placed with [the] parent within a reasonable time or should not be placed with either parent”:

(1) Following the placement of the child outside the child's home and notwithstanding reasonable case planning and diligent efforts by the agency to assist the parent to remedy the problem that initially caused the child to be placed outside the home, the parents have failed continuously and repeatedly to substantially remedy the conditions that caused the child to be placed outside the child's home. In determining whether the parents have substantially remedied the conditions, the court shall consider parental utilization of medical, psychiatric, psychological, and other social and rehabilitative services and material resources that were made available to the parents for the purpose of changing parental conduct to allow them to resume and maintain parental duties.* * *

(16) Any other factors the court considers relevant.

{¶40} In the case sub judice, the trial court found by clear and convincing evidence that the child had been in the temporary custody of a public children services agency for twelve or more months of a consecutive twenty-two month period pursuant to R.C. §2151.414(B)(1)(d). Appellant does not challenge the trial court's finding. This finding alone, in conjunction with a best-interest finding, is sufficient to support the grant of permanent custody. In re Calhoun, 5th Dist. No. 2008CA00118, 2008–Ohio–5458, ¶ 45.

{¶41} Further, the trial court's finding that Z.B.C. could not be placed with Appellant within a reasonable period of time was not against the manifest weight or sufficiency of the evidence. As set forth above, the caseworker testified that Appellant failed to comply with his counseling services, failed to attend the medical and service provider appointments for Z.B.C.'s brother, and failed to consistently visit the children. Further, despite SCJFS sending an exterminator to the home on six (6) occasions, the home was still infested with bedbugs. The trial court's finding that Appellant failed to successfully complete his case plan, and that the children would be at risk if they were to be returned to Appellant-father is not against the manifest weight or sufficiency of the evidence.

{¶42} The First Assignment of Error is overruled.

II.

{¶43} In his Second Assignment of Error, Appellant argues that finding that permanent custody was in the best interest of J.B.C. was against the manifest weight and sufficiency of the evidence.

{¶44} In determining the best interest of the child at a permanent custody hearing, R.C. §2151.414(D) mandates the trial court must consider all relevant factors, including, but not limited to, the following: (1) the interaction and interrelationship of the child with the child's parents, siblings, relatives, foster parents and out-of-home providers, and any other person who may significantly affect the child; (2) the wishes of the child as expressed directly by the child or through the child's guardian ad litem, with due regard for the maturity of the child; (3) the custodial history of the child; and (4) the child's need for a legally secure permanent placement and whether that type of placement can be achieved without a grant of permanent custody.

{¶45} The trial court recognized that Appellant and Z.B.C. shared a bond. However, the court found that the child's interest in permanency outweighed the detriment of severing this bond. The evidence demonstrated that Z.B.C. is doing well in foster care. The caseworker testified that Appellant has failed to demonstrate that he can meet the needs of his children consistently. (Tr. at 68-69). Additionally, the report of the guardian ad litem recommended that permanent custody be granted to Appellee.

{¶46} Based on the foregoing, we find that the trial court's finding that permanent custody was in the best interest of Z.B.C. was supported by the evidence.

{¶47} The Second Assignment of Error is overruled.

{¶48} For the foregoing reasons, the judgment of the Court of Common Pleas, Juvenile Division, Stark County, Ohio, is affirmed.
