9 1996.)

10 Appeal from the Court of Appeals for Cuyahoga County, No. 62275.

11 Appellant, David W. Allen, was convicted of aggravated robbery and 12 aggravated murder and sentenced to death. The Court of Appeals for 13 Cuyahoga County affirmed his conviction and sentence. State v. Allen
14 (Sept. 9, 1993), Cuyahoga App. No. 62275, unreported. This court affirmed
15 the court of appeals' judgment. State v. Allen (1995), 73 Ohio St.3d 626, 16 653 N.E.2d 675.

17 On December 5, 1995, Allen filed in the court of appeals an 18 application for reopening his direct appeal under App.R. 26(B). He alleged

1 that his appellate counsel had rendered ineffective assistance by failing to 2 raise eight issues in the court of appeals.

3 The court of appeals, however, found that Allen’s appellate counsel
4 had in fact raised five of the eight issues. As to the other three, the court
5 found that Allen “has not demonstrated that error occurred or that he was 6 prejudiced.” Accordingly, the court of appeals denied the application. The 7 cause is now before this court upon an appeal as of right.

8 Stephanie Tubbs Jones, Cuyahoga County Prosecuting Attorney, and 9 L. Christopher Frey, Assistant Prosecuting Attorney, for appellee.

10 David H. Bodiker, Ohio Public Defender, Michael J. Benza and J.
11 Joseph Bodine, Jr., Assistant Public Defenders, for appellant.

12 Per Curiam. Allen’s first proposition of law challenges the court of 13 appeals’ finding that appellate counsel had already raised the issues
14 contained in proposed assignments of error I through V. Our examination
15 of the appellate record shows that appellate counsel did raise the issue
16 contained in proposed assignment of error II. But as to the issues contained
17 in proposed assignments of error I, III, IV, and V, we agree with Allen that 18 his counsel did not raise these issues on appeal.

1 It does not follow, however, that the judgment must be reversed. It
2 has long been established “that where the judgment is correct, a reviewing
3 court is not authorized to reverse such judgment merely because erroneous
4 reasons were assigned as the basis thereof.” Agricultural Ins. Co. v.
5 Constantine (1944), 144 Ohio St. 275, 284, 29 O.O. 426, 430, 58 N.E.2d
6 658, 663. See, also, e.g., Myers v. Garson (1993), 66 Ohio St.3d 610, 614-
7 615, 614 N.E.2d 742, 745; State ex rel. Keenan v. Calabrese (1994), 69
8 Ohio St.3d 176, 179, 631 N.E.2d 119, 122; Wright v. Ghee (1996), 74 Ohio
9 St.3d 465, 467, 659 N.E.2d 1261, 1263.

10 The judgment in this case was correct. An applicant under App. R.
11 26(B) must show that “there is a genuine issue as to whether the applicant
12 was deprived of the effective assistance of counsel on appeal.” App. R.
13 26(B)(5). Allen made no such showing here. His allegedly ineffective
14 appellate counsel raised twenty-two assignments of error on appeal.
15 “Counsel could have reasonably decided they could not add [eight] more 16 issues without ‘burying good arguments * * * in a verbal mound made up of 17 strong and weak contentions.’” State v. Campbell (1994), 69 Ohio St.3d 38,

1 53, 630 N.E.2d 339, 353, quoting Jones v. Barnes (1983), 463 U.S. 745,
2 753, 103 S.Ct. 3308, 3313, 77 L.Ed.2d 987, 994.

3 Nor are Allen's new assignments of error especially compelling;
4 indeed, all eight are factually, legally, and logically weak. A competent 5 attorney could easily discount the chance of success of these issues and 6 elect to spend time on other issues instead. Appellate counsel's refusal to 7 raise these weak arguments simply does not create a genuine issue of 8 ineffective assistance. Allen's first proposition of law is therefore 9 overruled.

10 In Allen's second proposition of law, he contends that the court of 11 appeals prematurely decided the merits of proposed assignments of error VI
12 through VIII. On the initial application for reopening, the court of appeals 13 is to determine the existence of "a genuine issue^[1] as to whether the 14 applicant was deprived of the effective assistance of counsel on appeal."
15 App. R. 26(B)(5). If the applicant raises a genuine issue on that point, the 16 application is granted, id., and the applicant wins the right to brief both the 17 ineffective-assistance issue and the merits of the appeal. See App. R.
18 26(B)(7) and (B)(9), and July 1, 1993 Staff Note to App. R. 26.

¹ We perceive no merit in Allen’s proposed distinction between “a genuine issue,” which is the term used in App. R. 26 (B), and “a colorable claim of ineffective assistance,” the formulation used in the 1993 Staff Note to App. R. 26. Of course, if there were any distinction, the language of the rule would control over the Staff Note, Allen’s argument to the contrary notwithstanding.
