DISMISSED FOR LACK OF JURISDICTION

On April 23, 2015, Sandra Sandoval filed a notice of appeal, stating she was appealing an order that was final and appealable because it resolved all claims before the trial court. We examined the clerk's record, determined the trial court had not rendered an order finally disposing of all claims before it, and ordered Sandoval to show cause why this appeal should not be dismissed for lack of jurisdiction. See Lehmann v. Har-Con Corp., 39 S.W.3d 191, 205 (Tex. 2001) (concluding that when there has not been a conventional trial on the merits, an order or judgment is not final for purposes of appeal unless it actually disposes of every pending claim and party, or unless it clearly and unequivocally states that it finally disposes of all claims and all parties). We granted Sandoval an extension of time to file a response, but no response was filed. Therefore, we dismiss this appeal for lack of jurisdiction.
