Memorandum Opinion by Justice Moseley

MEMORANDUM OPINION

Vanessa Reed brought an attempted interlocutory appeal from an order denying her plea to the jurisdiction in this case under the Texas Family Code. We contacted counsel by letter explaining that it did not appear that the ruling was one that was subject to an interlocutory appeal, and providing a ten-day window during which she could show the Court how it had jurisdiction over the appeal. We also warned her that in the absence of an adequate response, the Court would dismiss the appeal for want of jurisdiction. No response has been filed.

Reed has now filed a petition for writ of mandamus seeking review of the ruling, and pursuant to her request, the record has been transferred from this appeal to the mandamus proceeding.

We dismiss the appeal for want of jurisdiction.
